

CIO Promises Its Support to Legislation to Help Farmers

Would Stabilize Prices At Not Less Than Production Cost

SESSION NEAR END Expresses Anxiety Over 'Program of Civil Rights Violation'

Atlantic City, N. J.—(AP)—The CIO pledged itself today to support legislation to stabilize farm prices at not less than the cost of production. Leaders of 32 unions affiliated with the Committee for Industrial Organization adopted unanimously a resolution which said the CIO "recognizes the community of economic interest between the industrial workers and the farmers."

"Farmers and farm workers are entitled to their fair share in the national income and legislation seeking a stabilization of farm prices at not less than the cost of production will have the hearty support of the CIO," the resolution said.

The action came at the start of what close associates of John L. Lewis, CIO chairman, said might be the last day of its strategy conference here.

Delegates also approved a resolution expressing "deep anxiety" at a deliberately conceived and spreading program of civil rights violation. The statement said such "violations" as the Chicago Memorial day killing of 10 steel workers constituted a menace to the labor movement generally as well as to "the democratic institutions of our country."

Assails Chicago Police

In another resolution the conference condemned conduct of the Chicago police on Memorial day as a disgrace to any community making even a pretense of being civilized.

"The conference regards the silence of government officials on the South Chicago massacre as a grave, disturbing omen," the statement said. "Not one public official in the city, state or federal government, with the exception of Senators La Follette and Thomas of Utah, members of the senate civil liberties committee has ever raised a voice of protest at the unspeakable cruelty of the Chicago police—unprovoked cruelty."

The first action today was to authorize CIO unions to extend financial help, if possible, to the International Woodworkers of America, whose representative, Al Hartung, said members had been locked out by an A. F. of L. boycott near Portland and needed aid.

The CIO, meanwhile set out today to justify its claim of being the dominant labor force by accepting the challenge of opponents to assume "union responsibility."

Pledge Cooperation

Adopting a permanent national policy for the first time, leaders of 32 affiliated CIO unions unanimously approved a resolution yesterday to cooperate with employers in administration of collective bargaining agreements which, they said, must be written contracts.

There were vociferous clamors from some delegates to the CIO conference, principally from automobile and west coast maritime workers, that "unwarranted" actions of employers frequently made drastic union action—such as sit-downs—imperative.

But, no opposition voice was raised when Philip Murray, chairman of the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee, who supported the resolution, called for a voice vote.

In the temporary absence of Lewis himself, Murray and Sidney Hillman, chairman of the Textile Workers' Organizing Committee, led the victorious fight to establish the premise that the CIO must adopt a firm policy toward observance of collective bargaining agreements.

Murray said the resolution was introduced to clarify, at least in the minds of the nation's workers, CIO's determination to adhere to the letter of its contractual obligations.

Strategists Fear Congress Jam May Result From Fight Over Anti-Lynching Bill

SLAIN BY GUNMAN

A middle aged gunman with a foreign accent was sought by Indiana police in connection with the fatal shooting of Melba Moore (above), 16, slain while riding with two escorts on a lonely road near Mishawaka, Ind.

Washington—(AP)—Administration strategists, seeking swift approval of a five-point program at the special session of congress next month, faced the possibility today of a prolonged jam over the anti-lynching bill.

The senate, in order to get out of a parliamentary tangle in August, agreed formally to make the anti-lynching measure a special order of business immediately after a vote on farm legislation at the next session.

This agreement, parliamentarians said, was so worded that it holds for the special session called by President Roosevelt.

Leaders expressed the belief the agreement would not endanger wage-hour or farm legislation but would throw a serious obstacle in the way of the president's three other proposals.

These are government reorganization, creation of regional planning authorities modeled after the TVA, and strengthening of the anti-trust laws.

Pay Hour Bill

The wage-hour bill already has passed the senate and would not be sidetracked by the anti-lynching debate unless the administration should unexpectedly abandon the bill now awaiting house action and should submit a new one.

No legislation in recent years has stirred such determined group hostility as the anti-lynching bill. It passed the house this year, but never even reached the stage of formal debate in the senate because of filibusters.

When the farm bill is out of the way, however, the anti-lynching bill can be displaced only by a majority vote. In view of support for the measure, senate leaders forecast its ultimate passage.

Whether southern senators will try seriously to delay a vote in view of the bill's preferred legislative status remains to be seen. Even the most optimistic administration chiefs held out little hope for quick action.

Meeting During Summer

The first of the president's measures likely to be delayed by the anti-lynching debate is the government reorganization bill. It already has passed the house.

Federation Seeks Senate Probe of United Mine Group

Decides to Ask Civil Liberties Committee to Make Investigation

Denver—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor convention decided today to ask the senate civil liberties committee to investigate the United Mine Workers of America.

The federation's action followed a speech by Joe Ozanic, president of the Progressive Miners of America, in which Ozanic accused U. M. W. officials of "a reign of terror" in the Illinois coal fields.

Twenty-one Progressive Miner members had been killed during the five-year war between the unions, he asserted.

The convention will send the senate committee a transcript of Ozanic's two-hour speech.

Ozanic also accused U. M. W. officials of driving him out of central Pennsylvania when he tried to organize Progressive locals there.

With only a few dissenting votes, the convention amended the federation's constitution to help fight the CIO.

The executive council was given power to levy special assessments on member unions, and to call special conventions.

The president was given power to suspend or expel rebel state federations and city control bodies.

The assessment amendment will enable the council to continue a "voluntary" assessment of one cent each month for each member, levied last May in Cincinnati.

Evangelist Held In Two Slayings

Accused of Murdering Estranged Wife and Auto Salesman

Lexington, Ky.—(AP)—Miller Olson Johnson, 47-year-old evangelist, was charged in warrants today with the double murder of his estranged wife and an automobile salesman at Mrs. Johnson's home last night.

Two brothers of the slain salesman, William Rue, 37, said he had been keeping company for several months with Mrs. Johnson's daughter, Leila, 23, and planned to marry her.

Police Sergeant Speed Sherrow said Johnson signed a statement admitting the shootings and asserting he saw Rue and Mrs. Willie Johnson, 42, together in the living room when he returned last night to see one of his children.

Gilbert and Stanley Rue, however, told reporters their brother was a "victim of mistaken identity."

Frank Uterback, a collector for the Johnson household when the small gray-haired "interdenominational" preacher arrived, and heard him say something to Rue about "going with my wife." He said he left the house, and as he entered his automobile, he heard two shots.

Rue's body was found on the threshold of the front door. He had been shot through the neck. Mrs. Johnson, shot in the chest, was found dead in the bedroom of the three-room house.

Johnson surrendered at police headquarters a short time later, tossing a gun on Sergeant Sherrow's desk.

Bank Is Looted At Genesee Depot

'Negligible' Amount of Money Taken, President Reports

Genesee Depot, Wis.—(AP)—Arthur Richards, vice president of the State Bank of Genesee Depot, said today a checkup of bank funds revealed that a "negligible" amount of money had been taken in an early morning robbery.

Authorities investigating the robbery said they believed the robbers were frightened away from the bank by a "negligible" amount of money taken in an early morning robbery.

Two clear boxes filled with coins were left by the robbers in their haste to escape.

The robbers entered the bank through a basement window, climbing the stairs and jimmying the door of the bank proper. A hole 14 inches square was cut with an acetylene torch in a metal door leading to the vault, but the vault was not entered. A small amount of money not in the vault comprised the entire loot, Richards said.

Authorities searched the bank today for fingerprints.

Episcopal Church in Movement for Unity

Cincinnati—(AP)—The Protestant Episcopal church pledged its cooperation today in a movement which some theologians hope eventually will unite the world in one Christian faith.

First, it invited the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. to consider steps for achieving organic union, and Second, it endorsed the proposed world council of churches and agreed to send two delegates to a preliminary conference in Holland in May, 1938.

At the same time, however, the church's triennial general convention here, through which the cooperative moves were made, decided not to join the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in the United States until after the conference on the world council.

France Ready to Re-Enter Non-Intervention Debate

Paris—(AP)—France is willing to re-enter debate in the London non-intervention committee on withdrawal of foreign soldiers from Spain, sources close to the foreign office affirmed today, but is equally prepared for action in event "advisory" procedure develops.

Authoritative persons predicted the French council of Ministers, called for today, would approve the decision made in a preliminary session yesterday.

A three-point program, it was said, already had been drafted to cover the French attitude now that Italy had refused to join the Paris and London governments in a conference on withdrawal of Italian troops from the Spanish civil war.

Bill to Revamp State Bureaus Wins Approval

Senate Progressives Win Passage by Ballot Of 17 to 16

PUSHED IN HOUSE

Assembly Takes Only 3 Minutes to Order Measure to Third Reading

Madison—(AP)—The administration bill to reorganize state government departments was passed 17 to 16 by the senate last night under strict Progressive rule.

The measure was sent at once to the assembly which convened at a special hour today to receive and concur in it.

It took the house only three minutes to order the reorganization bill to a third reading, the last step before final passage. The administration bloc lacked only two votes of suspending the rules and sending the bill to the governor at once.

The only other measures awaiting final action before adjournment Saturday noon were the chain store tax, housing and Milwaukee school tax bills.

The two houses met briefly this morning and recessed until the afternoon.

The machinery set up by Governor LaFollette and his aids to force action on his 11-point program before adjournment Saturday noon worked smoothly in each house as night sessions—lasting beyond 1 o'clock a. m.—continued.

The assembly passed a chain store tax bill and messenger it to the senate, giving that chamber the only bill of the entire program that it had not already approved.

Measures that remained on the calendar before Thursday's sessions for final action of both houses were the reorganization and chain store tax bills, the Milwaukee school tax bill, the school board bill to permit the school board to levy a higher property tax and the bill authorizing cities to engage in housing projects. Seven others had been sent to the governor.

Solons Eye Clock

Administration forces started reckoning with the clock yesterday to push through the reorganization bill.

Under the rules, one day must elapse between the time the assembly can receive a bill from the senate and bring it up for a final vote.

Without suspending the rules the senate could not pass the reorganization bill until Thursday, so the Progressive bloc forced the chamber to meet at 12:01 a. m.

It was Thursday morning in the senate and Wednesday night in the house.

Woman Badly Burned When Stove Explodes

Waupaca—Severe burns about the face and head were suffered by Mrs. Belle Chamberlain, 70, when an oil stove exploded while she was lighting it in her apartment at 506 S. Main street, about 8:30 this morning.

Mrs. Waddie Nader, another resident, smelled smoke and discovered Mrs. Chamberlain, who had sounded no alarm, fighting the fire.

The fire department was called and the blaze extinguished after extensive damage had been done to the house owned by F. E. Chandler.

Waupaca. Injuries to Mrs. Chamberlain, whose hair was singed, were treated by a local physician and removal to a hospital was being considered today.

Simmons Workers to Have Election Friday

Kenosha—(AP)—A pre-election campaign among employees of the Simmons company was under way today on the eve of the state labor relations board election in the plant to determine the bargaining agent for employees.

Newspaper advertisements signed by the city's CIO unions, claiming a membership of 7,000, urged votes for the CIO, while a mass meeting of Simmons employees was called for tonight to hear state federation of labor speakers.

Voting begins at 8 o'clock a. m. tomorrow in a vacant factory building. The labor board has certified 2,428 employees eligible to vote.

Bankers Oppose Extension of Branch Banking Beyond Boundaries of State

Boston—(AP)—The American Bankers' association today declared firm opposition to any extension of branch banking beyond state lines and urged its new president to urge the nation's bankers to make "all of the people deficit conscious."

The association, at the closing session of the sixty-third annual convention, adopted a strong resolution against extension of branch banking on an interstate scale—action hailed by opponents of such banking as "a complete victory."

The new president, Orval W. Adams, Salt Lake City, Utah, called for a balanced budget which he said must be achieved by a substantial reduction in government expenditures, and increased taxes "more equitably distributed over a much broader base." He also declared bank depositors must be made conscious of what continuance of a deficit meant to them.

Brady Gangster Is Put Aboard Plane; Destination Is Secret

Indianapolis—(AP)—Myron Gurnea, leader of the G-men who rounded up the Brady gang in a gun fight at Bangor, Maine, Tuesday, today brought James Dalhove, the gangster who survived the battle, back to Indiana where two indictments charging murder await him.

Bangor, Maine—(AP)—A cabin plane winged westward today carrying Brady gangster James Dalhove to a destination that was the secret of his G-men captors.

At the city airport one federal agent said the survivor of the mid-west gang episode in a gun battle Tuesday would be taken to Indianapolis; another said Chicago.

Myron Gurnea, who led the FBI men in springing the trap that left Al Brady and Clarence Lee Shaffer, Jr., dead in a downtown street here, still was tight-lipped.

"You'll have to figure that out when we're in the air," he told the questioners asking his destination.

Only the pilot, Gurnea, other G-men and Detective Meredith Stewart of the Indiana state police were with the manacled prisoner when the cabin plane took off at 5:10 a. m. eastern standard time.

The pilot quickly shaped a westward course.

Officials Reject Appleton Company Post Office Bid

Hold Sale in Abeyance for New Offer, May Readvertise

Procurement division officials of the United States treasury department have rejected the $15,000 offer of the Home Mutual Insurance company of Appleton for the old post office building and site on Oneida street, according to information received from Washington today. The company was the sole bidder.

Officials will hold the post office sale in abeyance until they receive a suggestion that a price more nearly in keeping with the estimated value of the structure may be offered. They hope to advertise for new bids in about a month, however.

While officials would not estimate the value of the old post office building, it is understood that they think they should get from 40 to 60 per cent more than was offered by the insurance company.

Before bids on the structure were opened at Washington, recommendations were made to the Appleton common council to purchase the building and rebuild it into a city hall or police station. The suggestion was turned down twice by councilmen.

If the city were to buy the building, it could be purchased for half its appraised valuation with the stipulation that it would revert back to the government when no longer used by the city. It could not be sold. However, the city could offer a bid for absolute ownership also.

Freezing Weather Hits Large Part of Nation

Chicago—(AP)—Northerners buttoned up their top coats today in the first widespread bite of freezing weather.

Abnormally low temperatures prevailed over much of the nation east of the Rocky mountains.

Freezing conditions extended southward as far as the Missouri-Arkansas border and eastward into New York state.

A minimum of 10 above zero was recorded at Owl's head in the northern Adirondacks. Two inches of snow covered parts of Erie, Wyoming and Cataraugus counties in up-state New York.

The lowest in the west was 14 above at Huron, S. D. while Devils Lake, N. D. and Moorhead, Minn., reported 16.

American Lutherans Vote $820,000 Budget for '38

Milwaukee—(AP)—A 1938 budget of $820,000 was approved by the American Lutheran church in a meeting here last night to carry on its charitable, educational and foreign and American missionary programs.

The budget, increased $50,000 over 1937, was voted by a commission composed of the church's 13 district presidents of the United States and Canada.

Major Promotions are Due in Nation's Navy

Washington—(AP)—The future appeared a little brighter today for army officers who long ago realized that peacetime affords few opportunities for rapid promotion.

Not in years, it was said in military circles, has there been such a prospect of wholesale advancement in the higher ranks.

Seven major generals—a third of the army's high command—must quit the service for one year. One or more others may be retired because of physical disability.

Major General Douglas MacArthur already has resigned, effective Dec. 31. He said, "I feel that it is only just that I retire to clear the way for others."

Eager to step into major general's shoes are most of the 46 brigadier generals on the army's promotion lists. 634 colonels are officially ready to succeed the brigadiers.

91 Casualties As Rebels Shell Madrid Region

Terror Reigns as Heart of Capital Faces Intense Bombardment

AIR RAID KILLS 30

Five Pilots Captured by Government Reported To be Italians

Madrid—(AP)—Insurgent artillery killed or wounded 91 persons in a destructive bombardment last night of this besieged city, once the proud capital of all Spain.

The number of casualties was given out in an official government report after a night of terror in which approximately 700 shells blasted the heart of the city.

Four of the shells hit Madrid's skyscraper—the telephone building—which since the civil war started has been struck 136 times.

Casualties were heavy on the Gran Via, where one shell exploded close to a crowd leaving a theater.

The government said 30 persons had been killed and 70 injured during an insurgent airplane bombardment of Campo de Casa, in Asturias province of northwest Spain. Many others were reported killed in nearby Infesto, where 100 houses were destroyed.

Occupy Three Towns

The government said the insurgents had occupied three towns—San Martin de Bada, Torpe and Balaiva de Bada on the northern Asturian front and, further south, had advanced to Tenarubia, near the Leon province boundary.

In combat on the Aragon front Monday near Fuentes de Ebro the government said that 12, instead of seven, insurgent planes had been shot down. Five were said to have fallen in insurgent territory and the others behind government lines.

Five pilots were captured, all allegedly Italian.

The bombardment caught Madrid just as after-terror crowds were streaming homeward and the casualties probably were higher than on Monday night. That attack, claiming more than 100 lives, was unleashed when most of the inhabitants were within the protection of their homes.

Some bodies were dragged from demolished houses in the early morning darkness.

Hotel Is Hit

The hotel where Madrid's foreign visitors are housed was hit for the first time in the more than 11 months of the siege.

Agree on Route for Link to New Road

Report Tentative Acceptance of Proposed Highway 125 Change

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—Tentative agreement on a relocation of Highway 125 for 1.37 miles, a $100,000 project, was reported by Thomas Davlin, chairman of the state highway commission, after a conference by the commission with representatives of the city of Appleton, the Appleton Chamber of Commerce, and the highway committee of the Outagamie county board here Wednesday.

The proposed relocation would bring the highway slightly northward west of the city, and would follow the Chicago and Northwestern railway tracks to a junction with W. Haskell street, would proceed along Haskell to W. Prospect where it would meet the old route.

Several other routes, including modification of present Highway 41 west of the city, together with improvements were also considered.

Davlin said, but were rejected in favor of a relocation.

"That is apparently the route desired by Outagamie county and the city of Appleton, and the state highway commission has acceded to their wishes," the commission chairman explained.

Financing of the project was discussed but no definite decisions were made, pending discussion of the plan by the city council and the county board of supervisors, he said. The commission, however, is willing to participate in a part of the construction cost, he pointed out.

The new highway, which includes 42 of a mile within the city, would be 36 feet wide within the city limits, and 20 feet, with 10 foot shoulders, for the 25 mile outside the city.

Shanghai Faces Worst Shelling Of Present War

U. S. Marine Wounded; Scores of Chinese Casualties

TWO-HOUR BATTLE

Artillery, Warships and Planes Join in Attack

Shanghai—(AP)—The worst bombardment in Shanghai's bloody warfare raked the international settlement today, killing or wounding scores of Chinese civilians and wounding a United States marine.

Marines were forced to evacuate two huge cotton mills inside their defense lines where they had been quartered. These structures were hit by shells believed to have been fired from Japanese guns.

None of the marines billeted in the mills was wounded but Milton Hiatt, private in the Fourth regiment, was struck in the shoulder by a rifle bullet while on duty inside a machine gun defense works.

A sailor aboard the United States flagship Augusta, J. P. McMichael, was injured slightly by shrapnel from Japanese shells spraying the cruiser at anchor in the Whangpoo.

Thirty-seven dead and 67 wounded from shells falling into the international settlement south of Soochow creek was the toll within that area, police said.

Planes Join Attack

For two hours the Japanese and Chinese blazed away at each other with the most intensive fire laid down in the Shanghai fighting. Beside artillery batteries, Japanese warships in the river, machine gun and rifle fire, the hail of death-dealing missiles and explosives was augmented by aerial bombardment.

Chinese and Japanese plane squadrons fought overhead as ground forces battled for possession of approaches to the city and fighting swirled around the edges of the barricaded international settlement.

Some 50 miles west of Shanghai an additional 75 Chinese civilians were killed when Japanese warplanes bombed a passenger train on the Soochow-Kashing railway.

The Japanese naval commander, Admiral Kichiro Hasegawa, apologized for the incident after United States Admiral Harry Yarnell protested against reckless firing by the Japanese warships.

One gigantic projectile of undetermined origin exploded in the settlement near the foreign Y. M. C. A., killing and wounding 35 Chinese civilians. Ten were killed and 30 injured when the street car they were riding in was blown off the tracks near the barricades held by American marines on the northern edge of the settlement.

Other Shells Fall

Police reported that at least half a dozen other shells, believed to be Japanese anti-aircraft shells, fell in the settlement. Ten persons were killed and many wounded when

Report Vatican Is Ready to Help Japs Fight Communists

Missions in Far East Told To Cooperate Where 'Danger Appears Active'

Vatican City—(AP)—A reliable Vatican source said today that the holy see, in carrying out the Catholic church's worldwide campaign against bolshevism, had instructed its hierarchy and missions in the Far East to cooperate with Japanese action in China "wherever bolshevist danger appears active."

These orders, the Vatican source said, have gone out in a private memorandum defining the Vatican's position in the Sino-Japanese conflict.

These make plain, however, the Vatican informant added, that complete impartiality is the rule in ministering to the wounded of either side.

This action, it was asserted by the Vatican source, coming after the recognition of insurgent Spanish Generalissimo Franco's regime in Spain and after numerous recent assertions of the pope vigorously condemning communism, seemed to indicate the determination of the Vatican to carry on relentless war against the spread of communism as inimical to the church.

3 Specific Instructions

This same quarter said that Japan's action "tends to arrest bolshevist penetration in Asia," and that the memorandum contains eight specific instructions, the more significant of which are summarized as follows:

"To assist wounded on both sides.

"To preach the necessity of China's comprehending the precepts of Japanese civilization and investing herself, especially in certain districts, of ferocious Mongolian influence.

"To point out that China's vastness, provided the people rediscover the standards of their ancient civilization, will tend to permit gradual absorption of Japanese influence.

"Wherever bolshevist danger appears active, to support, without reserve, Japanese action.

"To give Japanese military authorities the clear impression that, on the part of the Catholic church, there is no obstacle to complete collaboration."

Published Prices are Cited at Federal Trial

Madison—(AP)—A. C. Breuch, Madison oil jockey, who testified in federal court yesterday that gasoline prices remained unchanged more than seven months during a period when the federal government alleges a price-fixing conspiracy existed, compared notes today with counsel for the Chicago Journal of Commerce.

Breuch said his jobbing contract with the Barnsdall Refining Corporation based the price on the average of "high" and "low" open market quotations in the Journal.

Twenty-three major oil companies and three trade journals are on trial on charges of establishing artificial prices to independent oil merchants.

Breuch testified that the Journal quotations and hence the price he had to pay did not vary from June 6, 1933, to Jan. 13, 1934, and that the price to him during this period was 52 cents a gallon.

Meanwhile, in nearby Poughkeepsie where he spoke yesterday in helping the town celebrate its 250th anniversary, city fathers had a tremendous cleanup job on their hands after a day and night of merriment that some officials said equaled in noise and color that of Armistice day.

Japan Wants Control Over All of China to Ban Reds, Railroad Official States

North China Plans Delayed Pending End of Shanghai Drive. He Says

Tientsin—(AP)—In an interview today Yusuke Matsuoka, American-educated president of the South Manchuria Railway company, and veteran Japanese diplomat, disclosed Japan seeks control of the whole of China to prevent it from falling prey to soviet Russia and communism.

The Japanese army, he said, intends to occupy Nanking, the Chinese capital. Matsuoka explained Japan's political and economic plans in North China had been delayed pending the clearing up of the Shanghai situation, as a fundamental solution in the north was impossible until the Chinese troops were defeated and Nanking occupied.

Eighty per cent of the Chinese economic and political leadership, he said, is concentrated around Shanghai, while the coastal zone and northern provinces constitute 90 per cent of China.

New York—(AP)—Bruce Barton, who wants to be known as "the great repealer," said today if elected to congress he would "move to repeal a law a week."

The advertising executive, Republican nominee for congressman from the "silk stocking" seventeenth district here, said an afternoon in a law library convinced him "no other nation in the world is so ridden to death by legislation."

Medical Society Says Many Colds Become Serious

Rest in Bed Will Shorten Period of Illness. Bulletin Advises

Madison — "Three out of four cases of pneumonia develop from colds," declared the state medical society in its special bulletin issued today on the subject of colds. To avoid the serious complication of pneumonia resulting from a neglected cold, pertinent information concerning the care and caution to be exercised was voiced by the society.

"Extensive research work has been carried on to isolate the organism causing colds and to develop a serum or a vaccine which will develop an immunity to the disease. Many so-called cures have been announced, but they have been disproven under the searching light of scientific study. Until such time as a proven serum, vaccine, or medication has been discovered, the most reliable advice that can be given to a person, suffering from a cold or who feels that he is 'coming down' with a cold, is very brief and all too often unpopular. 'That advice is 'Go to bed.' Rest in bed will shorten the period of illness more than any medication which has been devised."

Japanese "Sacrifice"

"Every Japanese hopes for a strong anti-Kuomintang government to replace the Nanking government. Japan should act upon principles of benevolence and sacrifice in the rebuilding of China. Without this Japan would be unable to solve the Chinese problem on which she has already spent 2,000,000,000 yen ($500,000,000) in Manchoukuo without receiving even interest in return."

Matsuoka ridiculed the argument that Japan was unable to bear the burden of financing China's development in addition to that of Manchoukuo, pointing out that the rebuilding of Tokyo after the earthquake cost more than 12,000,000,000 yen ($3,000,000,000).

Matsuoka said it would be better for the Japanese nation to perish than to fail to carry out Japan's highest precepts.

"We have followed overmuch the material lessons of the west. The Japanese are now determined not to allow communism and other influences to turn China into a weapon against Japan."

"Europeans and Americans are ignorant of the realities of the Far East; Japanese are similarly ignorant of the realities of western lands."

Water Pumpage Last Summer Was 25,000 Gallons Over This Year

Statistics of water pumpage compiled by W. U. Gallaher, superintendent of the Appleton water works, during the summers of 1936 and 1937 show a difference of only 25,000 gallons over the two periods.

A total of 239,786,000 gallons of water was consumed in Appleton during the summer of 1936 while residents used 239,761,000 gallons during the summer of 1937, records show.

An exceptionally hot period of 10 days in July, 1936, shot water consumption up to 94,703,000 gallons that month as compared with 92,362,000 gallons in July, 1937. However, August of 1937 apparently was hotter than the same month of the previous year when 70,152,000 gallons were used as compared with 81,179,000 gallons this year. In June this year, 66,220,000 gallons of water were pumped at the plant while during the same month last year, 65,931,000 gallons were used.

During hot summers, there were 13 days when over three million gallons of water were used. Figures for July 13, 1936, show that on that day the greatest volume of water was pumped when a thirsty population consumed 4,531,000 gallons as against the top day in 1937 when 3,966,000 gallons were pumped on July 7.

Although records show that the Fourth of July of both summers were hot, evacuation of the city by holiday celebrators shoved the day's consumption of water down to 1,972,000 gallons in 1936 and 1,795,000 gallons in 1937. The lowest day's pumpage in 1936 was on June 5 when 1,708,000 gallons were consumed while the lowest day in 1937 was June 6 when 1,738,000 gallons were pumped.

months of insurgent siege. Many buildings nearer the ministry of state were caught by the screaming projectiles.

The two-story ministry building itself was hit squarely by four shells. Apparently this structure was the chief target of the insurgent gunners. Most of the foreign newspaper men work there. Glass was shattered and cordite (an explosive) fumes filled the building.

Screams welled from the streets nearby but so far as was known no one was injured in the government building. Charles P. Nutter, chief of the Associated Press Madrid bureau, was at the ministry, telephoning an account of the attack to London, when the fourth shell shook the building and broke the connection.

has been approved by a special committee headed by Senator Byrnes (D-S. C.).

Senate hearings also were held during the summer on the regional planning program, but a committee has not approved the final draft of a bill because of the illness of Senator Norris (Ind.-Neb.), its sponsor.

Speculation over the administration's legislative program for the special session centered chiefly on its proposals for strengthening the anti-trust laws. Details have not been disclosed.

Although advance information indicated a "cut and dried" schedule from the administration viewpoint, there was a possibility members themselves would create unexpected developments.

Appleton Investors May Regain Money Paid for Paper Securities

Residents of Appleton and 36 other Wisconsin cities and towns stand to regain money once thought lost forever as reorganization of Brown Company, Berlin, N. H., gathers headway, according to a press report from Portland, Me.

The $75,000,000 pulp and paper producer, largest in New England, has filed a plan in federal court proposing not only to pay back interest on its bonds, but interest on interest as well. This means that each holder of a $1,000 bond will receive interest of about $145 in cash as soon as the reorganization plan receives approval of the necessary number of bondholders, preferred stockholders and the court.

The company has been operating under section 77B of the Bankruptcy act since September, 1935. A check of the Brown company's records reveals residents of the following Wisconsin cities holding thousands of dollars of company securities:

Appleton, Ashland, Baraboo, Chippewa Falls, Clintonville, Columbus, Eau Claire, Evansville, Fort Atkinson, Friendship, Green Bay, Hartford, Hudson, Janesville, Kiel, Kaukauna, LaCrosse, Madison, Manitowoc, Menasha, Milwaukee, Minocqua, Monroe, Neenah, Oshkosh, Reedburg, Seymour, Sheboygan, Stevens Point, Sun Prairie, Superior, Wausau, Waupun, Wausau, Weyauwega and Wisconsin Rapids.

Rules Committee May Meet Before Session Is Begun

House Group May Discuss Terms for Releasing Measure

Washington—(AP)—Members of the house rules committee may meet in advance of the special congressional session to discuss possible terms for releasing their stranglehold on the wage-hour bill.

Chairman O'Connor (D-N. Y.) said today he was considering sending such a request immediately to all committee men.

Failure of congress to enact the bill last session was one factor which prompted President Roosevelt to call the extra session Nov. 15.

The senate passed the measure. The house labor committee approved it. But the rules committee held it up when Republicans teamed up in the opposition with southern Democrats.

O'Connor said it would be futile for committee members to try to keep the legislation from the floor because the house was certain to bring it to a vote by means of a petition, if necessary. Two hundred and eighteen members must sign the petition.

Sees Little Opposition

By granting of its own accord a resolution for consideration of the measure, he said, the committee could insure two or three days' debate and ample opportunity for amendment.

"The bill," he said, "in my opinion will be passed by the house without more than 75 votes against it."

If a petition is utilized, the measure could not be called up for debate until Dec. 13 because of parliamentary rules. In that event, it might be impossible to complete action on it before congress stops work for the Christmas holidays.

The wage-hour bill would create a labor standards board with broad powers to fix minimum wages up to 40 cents an hour and a maximum work week of not less than 40 hours in industries engaged in interstate commerce.

It would forbid child labor, but would exempt agricultural and most seasonal workers.

Accident Being Reduced Within Industrial Plants

But They are Increasing Outdoors. Doerfler Tells Mill Employees

Kimberly-J. T. Doerfler, mill manager, told a large group of employees at a safety gathering Wednesday afternoon at the clubhouse that "while we are having success in preventing accidents in industry, we are going backwards on the outside." He asserted statistics prove that America has twice the accidents outdoors that it has within doors.

Mr. Doerfler affirmed that last year in the United States, records show that an accident happened every three seconds and a death every five minutes. United efforts to prevent outdoor accidents can meet with the same success which industry has met in its safety program, he said.

Wednesday the employees of the Kimberly mill had passed 81 days without a loss-time accident. The goal they hope to reach is 100 days which will be November 1. On that day if the record is reached a celebration is planned which will include the blowing of the mill whistle and the village siren.

Melvin Schewe was awarded the individual prize, a toaster and perculator set. The departmental prize was awarded to Carl Hassel. Others receiving prizes were: Ray Jansen, William Hopfensperger, Joseph Williams, Girard Weris, Clarence Bourassa, John Porter, John Phelan, Clifford Arnoldson, John Ebban and David Porter, Sr.

The Ladies Aid society of the Presbyterian church held an executive meeting at the home of the president, Mrs. William Anderson, Tuesday in which plans were made for the annual supper to be held on Thursday October 28 at the clubhouse.

In connection with the supper, Group No. 2 of the Ladies Aid society, will sponsor a bazaar during the afternoon and evening. Mrs. Nina Hockenbrock is chairman of Group No. 2.

Fancy work, aprons, children's clothing as well as other wearing apparel will be on display, and home-made candy will be sold. Mrs. Fred Kroenke and Mrs. Henry Schewe were hostesses to Group No. 2, Tuesday evening, at the home of Mrs. Fred Kroenke. Plans for the bazaar were made.

Plans for the high school homecoming were well underway Wednesday when it was announced that a pep meeting will be held during the latter part of the afternoon, and a bonfire which will precede the game. A dance will be held at the clubhouse after the game which is open to the alumni, high school students, and Chilton. The Chilton football gridiron play here Friday evening. The regular alumni homecoming will be held the early part of November.

Five little girls from the third grade sang "Five Little Girls." "Fashions in Footwear" and "I Had a Little Doggie," under direction of Miss Grace Muehl, music instructor.

Superintendent L. M. Enans announced that report cards will be sent home next Wednesday and a new type will be used for the benefit of parents who are unable to visit the school as often as they might like to. This card will give in detail the habits and attitudes of the child as well as his growth in school subjects and his apparent health activities. This type of card may be extended to the upper grades later.

Mr. Enans stated that plans for the new school building are well under way, that it will be eight rooms, will be built close to the street keeping the play grounds well to the rear, and will be started some time before Christmas. ## Priest Speaker On Columbus Day

Rev. J. J. Loerke Delivers Address on 'Changing Attitudes'

Clintonville—The nineteenth annual celebration of Columbus day by Clintonville Council No. 1922 Knights of Columbus was climaxed by a 7 o'clock banquet for members and their wives on Tuesday evening at their hall on Seventh street. About 150 were present for the occasion, there being visitors from Oshkosh, Shawano, Bear Creek and Marion.

Grand Knight Russell Weller, after giving the address of welcome, turned over the program to Attorney C. C. Mullarkey, who acted as toastmaster of the evening. The main address was given by the Rev. J. J. Loerke of St. John's parish in Green Bay, formerly pastor of St. Rose church in this city. The speaker chose for his subject, "Changing Attitudes," in which he showed how in the course of a few years things which we once looked upon with disdain are now taken lightly and as a matter of course.

Father Loerke paved a glowing tribute to the high ideals that motivated Columbus and painted a word picture of how, in spite of reverses and disappointments, this navigator of old held to his ideas until he had achieved success. Today, after more than four hundred years, one nation after another is claiming Columbus as her favorite son, he said. The program also included short talks by B. E. Miller, state warden, F. D. Hurley, former district deputy, C. S. Thompson, past grand knight, and the Rev. Nicholas Dieck, chaplain of the local council. Arrangements for the Landing day banquet and program were in charge of Carl Zoch, lecturer of the

THE SUPREME COURT RULES

The Supreme Court ruled that it could not consider in their present form the attacks upon Justice Black's right to serve on the bench.

The lawyers who filed the objection knew of the rule which is quite as old as the American hills.

Courts would come to a pretty pass if judges had to watch the doors lest any spectator or intruder hurled a protest of some kind which demanded their immediate attention.

All of which indicates that the protesting lawyers were using the opportunity as a sounding board to keep the Affairs BlackKKK before the public.

Which may be said to be a strictly American procedure.

WINDSOR MUST COME HITEER

People should approach a consideration of the vast and mighty forces that affect the conduct of royal families with the same awe with which they reflect upon the tremendous powers that influence the movements of tides and planets. It has taken a long time for these ponderous elements to orient David Windsor until he faces America, Land of Promise, and, particularly, land of security for royal families.

We cannot make the duke president because of a provision of that blasted Constitution that requires a native born. Yet, who would object if we did? The Supreme Court? We will have that institution well pulverized into BlackKKK dust before time for a ruling arrives.

It may now be seen how the little side leaf cyclones that have appeared occasionally on our political horizon tend to join the momentous parade when the band leader comes abreast. Only about ten years ago Big Bill, the Bully Building Booster, ran a Chicago campaign with a slogan, "Down with King George." Bully Bill was doing missionary work for Windsor. The powers that run the universe saw to it that succeeding kings were named George even if their numbers differed.

What with fascism and communism and expelling royal families Europe has come to the brink of decay. And it is the heyday for America. In centuries past millions of immigrants came here lured on by democracy. They are now to be followed by royal families lured on by safety for royalty.

Windsor is about to copyright his own political theory. By some it is dubbed "Princely Socialism," by others it is called "national appeasement." We doubt whether it will be any better than "We Planned It That Way" but it may bring on to the American stage some features heretofore overlooked by our poor little rich boys reaching for the moon.

We know the royal house of Roosevelt has done its best. It munched sandwiches right in the presence of a great crowd of unwashed. It pours out Beola Beola in a never ending stream. To the casual or careless observers its technique will be thought to be much the same as Windsor, but there is a difference, ah, there is a difference.

The charm of the castle cannot be developed in a few generations. The description of Windsor conferring the halo of his royal presence even to German labor battalions reveals something in sparkle that we need in this Western world, so accustomed to be noisy laughter and rough quips.

When the duke found out the German working girl was paid $4.80 a week from which compulsory insurance premiums were deducted he got an excellent start for his flying leap at America. He is fully armed now to tell us what is the matter with our country.

There will be those unkind enough to imply that Windsor is leaving Europe because original Napoleon brandy of the vintage of 1807 is about exhausted. But they are the upstarts, the new rich, who merely have an antipathy towards socialism, princely or otherwise, and a disdain for appeasement, national or personal.

All hail the duke!

The Republican Party needs a leader

PEOPLE OR GOVERNMENT

There is some question whether the United States and the nations represented at Geneva are condemning the Japanese government, or the Japanese people. It is hard to answer such a question satisfactorily at such a time, because when any nation is once committed to war against another, no matter what the previous attitude of the people has been, they tend to support their government. If citizens are not really convinced, they hide their feelings.

This is doubtless true of the Japanese today. Yet well-informed outsiders cannot forget such vital facts as the following:

For many years the liberal movement in Japan has been growing. There are millions of socialists and democrats, although they all regard their Emperor with sentimental loyalty, as the symbol of their state and race. Their system of government is nominally parliamentary, after the English model, but latterly it has given place to a virtual dictatorship.

The group now in power, dominated by militarists and big business, and frankly imperialistic, has had less and less support. Economic protest against burdensome militarism grew stronger. In the last election, only a few months ago, the governing group elected only seven members of Parliament out of several hundred. But instead of the cabinet resigning, as it should according to principle and precedent, it calmly continued in power and then launched the present supreme drive against China.

So far the Japanese people have tolerated this arrogant action. Will they continue doing so if the war is prolonged, and if nearly all the rest of the world condemns them?

GYPPED SPECTATORS

An American traveler, who happened to be in Munich when Mussolini and Hitler met there, reports two things that struck him as making the occasion different from any great gathering to see a celebrity in this country.

The cheers of the throngs did not come in the prolonged roar of an American crowd yelling "hurrah!" and "attaboy!" Instead, the clipped, "heil, heil, heil!" had the staccato effect of a college football yell. The well trained crowds seem to cheer in unison, which must lessen the effect of spontaneity.

The other distinctive feature was the speed at which the car of the leaders moved. As Hitler arrived to meet Mussolini his car tore through the cleared roadway at 50 miles an hour. Later, when it returned, bearing both host and guest, it traveled again at high speed. "If one of the great men began a bow," says the observer, "he could scarcely have completed it within 200 yards." It was difficult for the people to get a real look at the men they had come to see. And difficult, thought the American, for any madman or would-be assassin to make a target of them.

With all the protection American presidents receive when on public view, there is more easy freedom and friendliness between spectators and officials. It doesn't sound as if the folks on the sidelines in Munich or Berlin really had much fun on the festive occasion of Mussolini's visit.

SIXTEEN-CYLINDER LOCOMOTIVE

On top of all the other innovations with which the railroads have been surprising us lately, it looks as if locomotives are going to stop puffing. The Baltimore and Ohio breaks out with plans for a steam engine without visible driving rods, and with as many cylinders as a fancy automobile.

Instead of two huge cylinders, one on each side of the engine, there will be 16 of them geared directly to the wheel axles, and working as silently as a gas motor or a steam turbine, with none of the usual pounding on the tracks. The gears will run in a constant bath of oil. The engine is expected to develop 5,000 horsepower and haul 14 standard Pullman cars 100 miles an hour on a straight, level track, with 15 per cent fuel saving.

There is no reason apparent, when you start thinking about it, why a railroad engine, or any steam engine, shouldn't be built in this way, borrowing ideas from the gas engine. If it works as well as expected, we may see a wider adaptation of the new multiple-cylinder system. Steam might even return to automobiles.

BONFIRE SEASON

Leaves are Nature's mulch and almost as valuable as such as the commercial fertilizer concentrates. Yet many a household rakes them from their yard, piles them in the street or alley and burns them. The practice is general and it is not likely that it will be changed.

Yet, a word of warning about bonfires may be in order. Each October, newspapers report tragedies that result when children, and sometimes adults, suffer burns as swirling, flaming leaves ignite clothing.

A good rule to follow is to kindle no bonfire that will not be attended constantly by an adult.

The passenger pigeon, so numerous that its flocks once darkened American skies for hours at a time, became extinct within a few years when market hunters knocked down the adult birds systematically from their roosts at night.

The original inhabitants of present Manchukuo were nomadic Tungus, a race quite different from the Chinese.

Many London flats are let by the week rather than the month with no lease required. Many letters demand a seven-year lease.

You asked me the other day when was I going deer hunting. Now I read in the papers there was a Russian government agent in this country letting contracts for 16 inch naval guns. If this fellow brings them guns to Wisconsin to go deer hunting with I ain't going. I don't trust them Reds anyhow.

But I was up in the old hunting grounds last Sunday. The deer trails and the blazed trails look natural. And there's something sliding the wrong way on the other-side.

Not that the Brady gang didn't deserve it, but as far as I can see, the G-Men also act as judge, jury and executioner, all with the pull of a trigger.

Some people they seem to capture alive. The ones who were known to have previously killed officers are in the other class. You may recall a guy named Dillinger.

One of your correspondent's boyhood pals is in the G-work, only I'm not supposed to know it, if you know what I mean. The boys are funny that way.

It would make a good yarn if another boyhood pal was being sought by G-men, but so far as I know, none of them are.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

WHITE BUTTERFLIES

White butterflies are souls of babies winging into a land of loveliness and light. Where there are always blessed angles singing. And scores of candles burning in the night.

White butterflies are freighted with the tender And dewy fragrance of a baby's breath. They float upon the air and on a slender Green leaf they fold white wings and dream of death.

White butterflies with fragile wings are flying Upon the last warm breeze that summer holds. And in the dusk a lonely heart is sighing For the soft breath of life a wing enfolds. (Copyright, 1937)

EUGENICS AND THE SUPER-RACE

Pigs is pigs.

Cross a pure black guinea-pig with a pure white guinea-pig and you get only black guinea-pigs in the first generation. But some of the blacks of this first generation carry a white trait nevertheless. When a pair of these, all black guinea-pigs mate, three-fourths of their offspring will be black and one-fourth will be white, just as white as the white grandparent was. If your ambition is to develop a "blue" or a gray breed or strain you will surely not give up so soon. Fortunately, too, guinea-pigs are enthusiastic performers when they get the general idea of what you hope to prove. So take a walk or bowl a game or two. When you return you'll find simple arithmetic no longer adequate—it takes integral calculus to keep tabs on progress of the experiment from now on. It goes like this:

White and black pigs crossed. First generation, all black (black is dominant; white is recessive). Second generation—three-fourths of the offspring black; one-fourth white.

Third generation—some of the blacks breed true. Some contain a mixture of white and black characters, traits or factors, and hence some of their offspring will be black some white.

White the guinea-pigs would probably carry on as long as you wish, you may as well conclude the experiment as hopeless. A "blue" or gray mottled or barred strain of guinea-pig might conceivably be developed in the course of a few hundred years, but who cares? If you want quick results, try crossing a black Andalusian cock with a white Andalusian hen. You'll get a brood of "blue"—that is, grayish chicks out of the first setting. In the course of the season, as these blues mature and start families of their own you'll have some more blues, but also some more blacks and whites. Here is the way the protocol of the chicken experiment will look:

Your Birthday

"LIBRA"

If October 15 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11:15 a. m. to 1:15 p. m. from 2:15 to 4:15 p. m., and from 8:15 to 10:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 8:15 to 11:15 a. m. from 6:15 to 8:15 p. m., and from 10:15 p. m. until midnight. Social activities can greatly interfere with routine work this day, unless care is exercised. The passage of time will seem quick, so it is advisable to occasionally keep track of it. Friends may try to take advantage of your good nature; therefore, be on the alert to avoid doing something foolish in an attempt to please them. You must consider your own interests before trying to further those of another person. Lady Luck seems apt to have an agreeable surprise for you, so do not keep in seclusion where she cannot find you. Do not turn a deaf ear to any suggestion this day, for it may be the means through which a great amount of happiness will come. Married and engaged couples, and those who are in love, will discover it is worth their while to be a little sentimental. If a woman and Oct. 15 is your birthday, you ought to have many high ideals. Some fine motive may inspire you to do just the right thing that will help advance your future interests. Be very careful that neither popularity nor success turns your head, for it is frequently through an excessive amount of egotism that many, born on this date, lose all they have gained in the way of high esteem. Before setting your heart on the furthering of some idea, be sure that it is practical because there is danger of your being visionary at times in an impractical way. You come under the influence of Venus, so you probably love luxuries, especially jewelry and beautiful clothes. You are likely to find yourself ultimately in an artistic atmosphere, with plenty of money to spend. As a newspaper woman, artist, musician, author, actress, designer, model, sculptor or broker money might flow into your purse in a surprising manner. Your married life may be one continual honeymoon.

The child born on October 15, generally can be controlled easily though love, but not through fear. Children born on this date are usually very high-spirited, sensitive, and by the time they reach their teens they have developed an independence of spirit that must be given a tactful consideration. If a man and October 15 is your natal day, you may expect too much of people and consequently suffer many disappointments. You will be much happier if you try to overlook imperfections and seek virtues in their place. As a clergyman, doctor, lawyer, engineer, author, salesman, artist or actor you may win public recognition, and opulence.

Q—What of Noel Coward's activities since he has been in New York?

A—He checked into a 5th avenue hotel but departed for his apartment on the East river a few days later—too many callers. . . . He hasn't written a line in three weeks. . . . Then John Cecil Holm wanted him to stage his (Holm's) new comedy, "I Cents a Word," but he declined. Noel has been a busy handshaker and first-nighter. At the "Star Wagon" opening he sat next to Mary Pickford and Buddy Rogers.

Q—What of Sheila Barrett, the singing mime?

Q—What, on Broadway, is meant by side-tepping?

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington — One of the things that make life interesting for school teachers in Alaska is that they have to supervise the reindeer.

The department of education says the teachers sort of drifted into the job because they were in close touch with the Eskimos whose children they were teaching — and the Eskimos were in close touch with the reindeer they eat.

Supervising the reindeer was a comparatively easy job for an enterprising school teacher until congress last session appropriated $200,000 to buy up all the private herds and turn them over to Eskimos, who were running short of reindeer of their own.

This wasn't a crazy communist idea of congress to buy out private industry and turn it over to the people. It was a means of settling a range dispute of long duration among the drifts and tundras of America's frosty province.

How It Started

Fifty years or more ago the government imported reindeer from Russia and Lapland, hiring some Lapps to herd them and to teach the Eskimos how. In turn the Lapps were allowed shares of the herds for themselves. Later, men from the United States went to Alaska to raise reindeer for the American market.

The Yankees introduced low-cost herding methods into the business, and from that and other reasons trouble arose. The Lapps had taught the Eskimos to herd their reindeer in closely held bands, moving from place to place for fresh supplies of moss, upon which reindeer feed.

Operators from the United States adopted the "loose herd" system in vogue on western plains, where the animals are allowed to roam at large with few herders. It cut down the cost, and for a time the operators made fair money shipping reindeer to the American market. The meat reputedly isn't as good as beef, but the novelty of it kept it going.

In time the herds got all mixed up; and the Eskimos, never famous as astute business men, began to complain that they were suffering from the short count in the annual roundups. Moreover, the operators from the United States hired all the experienced Eskimo herders at fancier wages than the Eskimo reindeer owners could pay, with the result that the Eskimo-owned bands of reindeer began to run wild and to suffer terrible losses from wolves. Certain Eskimo villages ran so short they faced real need.

Roundup Ordered

Moreover, the reindeer meat industry didn't prove so valuable, and was hit hard by the depression in the United States. Some members of congress were enthusiastic enough to suspect that the $200,000 was to be used simply to get the private operators out of a bad spot, but the bureau of education in the interior department says that is not so — well, not altogether so.

But there was such a wide difference between the number of reindeer the private owners said they had and what the government agents said they had that a general roundup is to be completed before the money — $3 a head — is paid over.

Rounding up reindeer scattered all over southern and western Alaska is quite something to think about, but the supervising school teachers say it can be done. Government estimates are that about 600,000 to 700,000 head of private stock will be bought, but the owners say it will be nearer two times that.

The Eskimos will take over the packing plants and all, and hope to continue shipping meat to the United States. But the chances are that if you want your reindeer meat regularly hereafter, you'll have to move to Alaska.

bad to sing "The Lady Is a Tramp." . . . This presented a colossal problem, as the number is considered Mitz's identifying tag, currently at least. . . . So Lew Brown wrote a special song for her, entitled, "Why I Can't Sing the Lady Is a Tramp." . . . The McCoy, of course, is included in Brown's lyrics. . . . If this isn't neat side-stepping, we don't know what is.

Q—What provoked that outburst of ruffians at the opening of the Paradise's new revue?

A—In it is a ticer scene. . . . 16 little biddies are dressed as lady tigers, and a dancer cracks the whip over them a la Clyde Beatty. . . . Then comes a special platyform on which are a dozen stately young women holding live "tigers" by leashes. The "tigers" are docile enough. . . . It develops suddenly that the "tigers" are really dogs in tiger skins. . . . And without warning one of the "tigers" lost part of his costume. . . . From his middle to his head he was some "tiger." . . . But the rest of him was Great Dane.

Lieber Company Accepts $6,500 Offer for Land

Acquisition of Property Will Insure Extension Of Division Street

The Appleton common council's offer of $6,500 for a portion of the Lieber Lumber company's property has been accepted by the company, according to a letter from its agents, Carroll and Carroll, received yesterday by City Clerk Carl J. Becker.

Acquisition of the property will enable the city to open N. Division street from Franklin street to Washington street. Involved in the deal, if passed by the council, will be 30 feet of land from Division street east on Franklin street and cutting at an angle through company property to Washington street. The transaction also will include lots 2 and 3 located on the new street and Washington street. The offer stipulated that the lumber company would not be assessed benefits and damages for maintenance of the new street until such time as a permanent street is installed. If the deal goes through as it now stands, the city will own a solid block of property from the water works office to the new street and including the city fairgrounds.

Hollywood News And Gossip

BY ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood — Dorothy Arzner is getting sick and tired of being "Hollywood's only woman director."

To women and girls everywhere she says in effect: "Come on in, the water's fine!" Seriously, the slight, short-haired woman of the tailored suits and quiet manner is convinced that the next few years will see many more women becoming movie directors. "Directing motion pictures," she says, "offers a fascinating career to women who are willing to devote their entire attention to studying the phase of picture-making. Direction as a profession should appeal to talented women as greatly as the law, or medicine. The courses of preparation are correspondingly long, and the rewards well worth the effort."

The Field's Wide Open Miss Arzner herself went through a seven-year apprenticeship as secretary, script clerk, cutter and writer before she was entrusted with her first film. That was 10 years ago. Since then she has been one of the colony's leading directors, and has commanded the film world of stars from Esther Ralston and Clara Bow to the present-day luminaries, Katharine Hepburn and Joan Crawford.

"There are no reasons why women should not succeed as producers and directors," she declares. "Many have earned distinction in other creative movie fields, as scenarists, costume designers, dance directors and film editors."

Four Women Producers Miss Arzner asks no concessions in working hours or conditions because of her sex. When doing a man's job she expects to meet the same hardships and strenuous demands of the post. She thinks it is encouraging that, while Hollywood has had only four women producers in its history, all four have reached executive rank in recent years. She refers to Frances Marion, the scenarist-producer Dorothy Davenport Reid, widow of the silent film star Wallace Reid; Irene Schreck, who gained her executive training as secretary to a studio manager; and Fanchon (of Fanchon and Marco) who first directed dance numbers for films and now produces her own pictures.

Salt Lake City Speeders Cured by Cell Treatment

By the AP Feature Service

Salt Lake City—Utah's only feminine judge, who doesn't "allow a woman's sympathy to sway my judgment," is waging a successful fight against reckless and drunken drivers and speeders.

She's Mrs. Reva Beck Bosone, 39-year-old police court judge in Salt Lake City, former state legislator, former University of Utah English instructor, mother of a 7-year-old girl and partner, with her husband, in the law firm of Bosone & Bosone.

Repeaters? To Jail

Her method: Minimum fines in minor speeding cases, $25; they range upwards to $100, depending on the drivers' speed.

Reckless driving, fines of $10 to $150, based on the offense.

Drunken driving, fines range upward from $100.

"Repeaters," said Mrs. Bosone, "go to jail."

But in the six months she's presided over the Utah capital's only traffic court, only two repeaters have faced her.

Cuts Speeding Cases

One, charged with speeding a second time, went to jail eight weeks. The other, convicted of drunken driving a second time, got 90 days. Judge Bosone also recommended his driver's license be suspended for life.

As evidence of her success, police

Harmonica Band Preparing for Halloween Program Oct. 8

Warren Meyer has been elected president of the Pleasant Corners Rural school society for the year at a recent meeting of the club, according to Miss Gertrude Ahlswede, teacher. Caroline Lieske was named secretary and Arlene Palmbach, vice president.

The harmonica band of 17 players is preparing for a Halloween program which will be held at the school Oct. 28. Leatha Palmbach is the drummer; Adeline Zimmer, pianist; and Bernice Greiner, director.

Second, third and fourth grade pupils are working on a reading unit on "The Farm." Evelyn Rolf contributed a small wooden barn and farm animals and Leatha Palmbach a house for the sand table project made in connection with the study. Fifth and sixth grade reading classes have completed an aviation unit which included an excursion to the Outagamie airport and the Whiting airport. Aviation scrap books on a model airplane were made. Work is being done now on an Indian unit.

Perfect attendance pupils for the first six weeks were Caroline Lieske, Warren Meyer, Alice Steinbach, Arlene Palmbach, Laverne Palmbach, Jerome Peters, Gladys Preuss, Leatha Palmbach, Donald Hoh, Arthur Borchardt, Jr., Evelyn Rolf, Alfred, Bernard and Jerome Miller.

IT'S ODD But It's Science

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor

Pasadena, Cal. — It appears that science won't be able to grow giants, either plant or animal, until they discover one of nature's greatest unknowns—the "limiting factor."

This means the force or condition that limits growth. New examples of this limit are reported in the proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences by Judges Bonner and Grace Axman of the California Institute of Technology.

They removed the embryonic plants from the seeds of perfection peas. The tiny plants were then made to grow in sterile solutions, distilled water mixed with salts.

Vitamin B (one), which helps in the growth of humans, also speeded the growth of these pea plants when added to their food. Another of man's life essentials, vitamin C, also made the peas grow bigger.

Two other chemicals had similar growing powers. One was folic acid, an essential of the sex cycle of women. Another was pantothenic acid, a new discovery.

But adding all of these together did nothing more toward growth than one of them alone. Nature seemed to be able to get "enough"

Proposed Hangar To Have Capacity Of 15 Airplanes

Crowded Conditions Reported in Two Present Buildings at Airport

Capacity of the proposed new hangar at the Outagamie county airport would be 15 airplanes, fully set up, Elwyn West, airport manager, said today. The new building would take care of all possible needs for the next several years, he stated.

At present there are two hangar buildings at the airport, and each has a capacity of three planes, set up. Two planes are being housed now by having the wings stripped.

One of the present hangars will be used for a workshop, provided the new hangar is built. At present, part of the building is being used as a workshop, although the quarters are crowded, West said. The other hangar building will be used for dead storage, such as planes awaiting repairs and the field equipment, part of which now is being kept outside.

Bids were taken on the new hangar last week, but no action was taken as they were higher than the estimate. County board members must approve additional funds before a contract may be awarded.

Employee at Union Home Reports He's Underpaid

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—A man who identifies himself as an employee of the home for aged carpenters, maintained by Mr. Bill Hutcheson's United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners at Lakeland, Fla., has sent your correspondent two communications.

One is a clipping from The Carpenter, the official journal of the brotherhood, indignantly denouncing as unbelievably low the wages paid florists and greenhouse employees in Denver. These people have been receiving from $10.80 to $12 for a week of from 54 to 72 hours, according to The Carpenter, which tossed off the editorial observation that other organized workers in many parts of the country have been the victims of similar conditions.

"It would be a good plan," says The Carpenter, "to make a record of these low wages business groups and throw it in the face of the chronic ballyhoosers who insist on unloading on the public the false propaganda that unreasonably low wages do not exist in the United States."

At this point your correspondent's correspondent spits on his hands and goes to work on the subject of unreasonably low wages. First, he places himself in absolute agreement with the carpenter's contention that such wages do exist, and next, although he identifies himself, he asks that his identity be kept confidential, because, miserable as the job is which he holds in the employ of a great and prosperous labor union, he needs the money nevertheless.

"I have been told that a dollar a day is starvation wages," your correspondent's correspondent says. "The enclosed article is written by Mr. Duffy, the general secretary of the union, and it dwells on the abominably low state of wages in one section of the country. Let me pause here, however, to state that our wages here at the home come through Mr. Duffy's office, and that, on the whole, we are paid much less and that our hours are equal to 5 p. m. on week days, so he reports, and put in three hours on Sunday mornings for $9 or $10 a week. The laundry hands are depicted as the aristocrats, for, although they are said to work from 7:30 to 5 in the afternoon, they do not work on Sunday and get a half day off on Saturdays at wages of $8 a week. He does not say as much, but it seems only fair to assume that food and quarters are supplied, too.

Pegler

"All overtime is donated," your correspondent's correspondent writes. "Vacations are rare, and there are no set meal hours—half the time you eat and run or run between bits. We tried to organize, led by the initiative of the kitchen help, within the hotel and restaurant employees' international, which is affiliated with the A. F. of L., like the carpenters and joiners' brotherhood, but we did not get very far. There seems to have been some pressure exerted somewhere and our charter was never recognized."

"We are also puzzled by the fact that we are not included in the New Deal's old-age pension plan. Why not? This home is not connected with charity."

Your correspondent does not know why the employees of the national home of the brotherhood of carpenters and joiners are excluded from the benefits of the social security act. But probably it goes back to the enormous initiation fees and dues which are exacted from the nominally free American working men by a private and unofficial licensing authority. Congress may have reckoned that anyone employed in such an organization must be rich, like some of their labor leaders.

Organized Play Helps to Reduce Juvenile Crime, G-Man Tells A. A. U. W. Unit

DESCRIBING crime as the largest business in the world today, T. J. Melvin, special agent in charge of the Federal Bureau of Investigation at Milwaukee, deplored the fact that so many children were criminals today in a talk before the Appleton branch of the American Association of University Women Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Fred V. Heinemann, 217 N. Green Bay street.

Broken homes play a great part in the current increase in juvenile delinquency, he said. He commended organized play as an effective means for curbing that increase.

Questioned about the effect of parole on crime, Mr. Melvin declared it was too complicated a question to discuss in a short time and dismissed it with "The average sentence served by the murderer who has drawn a life sentence is three years. You can draw your own conclusions."

Mr. Melvin told how the Federal Bureau of Investigation cooperates with local law enforcement officials and also how it works on federal crimes, describing in some detail how it broke up the Barker-Karpis gang, perpetrators of the Edward Bremer kidnapping.

The bureau also spends a great deal of its time training the personnel which is to do its work. Mr. Melvin said a man who desires to be appointed a special agent must be between the ages of 23 and 35, in good health and a graduate of an accredited law school or accounting school or must have had outstanding experience in law enforcement. If he passes the examination given by the inspectors, his record and character from grade school days on is studied. If the record meets with approval, the man is appointed special agent at a salary of $3,200 a year, Mr. Melvin explained. He is sent first to Washington, where for 14 weeks every phase of modern crime detection is taught him. Then he is sent to the field office.

Working from his Milwaukee office, Mr. Melvin continued, are two accountants, who take care of bank account and bankruptcy cases, and eight agents.

Methodist Women to Join In World Welfare Program

WOMEN of First Methodist Episcopal church will unite with nearly 3,000,000 Methodist women throughout the world in examining the aims and accomplishments of their church in social and welfare work at home and abroad on or about Tuesday, Nov. 9. The project, a part of the Million Unit Fellowship Movement now in progress to revitalize the church and to create new religious consciousness among its members, will use dramatizations, forum discussions, photograph recordings and many other modern means of interpretation to put across its purpose. Although no definite plans have yet been made by Appleton women as to what type of program or project will be attempted on that date, they will in all probability observe the day with the suitable program last year the women of the local Methodist church held an International Fellowship tea for the Million Unit Fellowship movement, and the supposition is that they will have a similar function about Feb. 8, the date suggested by the national organization.

Directed by Mrs. J. M. Avann, head of the women's department of the local church movement, the program which she has designated as a "safari" from the African world for journey of exploration will be carried out in many churches by local women leaders.

"Participation is voluntary on the part of the local churches," Mrs. Avann explained. "With the response so overwhelming, our expectations have been surpassed. We

Missionaries to Japan Will Speak At Appleton Church

An intimate knowledge of the life and ambitions of young Japanese who have to work for a living and get their education at night has been obtained by the Rev. Leeds Gulick of Matsuyama, Japan, who with his wife, Mrs. Gladys Ramsey Gulick, will speak Oct. 22 at First Congregational church. The Gulicks have been doing social service and educational work in the Japanese city for over 15 years. The tea at which they will speak will be held at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the junior assembly room of the church.

Mr. Gulick is the son, grandson and great-grandson of American Board missionaries and he himself was born in Oshkosh. Educated at Oberlin, his college work was interrupted by the World war during which he served overseas with the A. E. F. Later he took training at the Y. M. C. A. college in Chicago. Although active along many lines, his major responsibility has been as supervisor and instructor in the Matsuyama night school which fills a need among boys and girls who work during the day. In 1932 a new school building was dedicated.

Work among Boy Scouts and in summer camps, supervision of kindergartens, occasional preaching and visiting among the churches as well as special personal interviews with many types of young Japanese have kept Mr. Gulick's friendships many and varied.

the WORLD of STAMPS

BY JAMES B. HATCHER

Calpurnius, a Roman officer, had a son named Patrick who converted Ireland to Christianity in the fifth century and became patron saint of Erin.

His figure appears on the Irish Free State's three new high value stamps: 2 shillings 6 pence green, 5-sh brown violet, 10-sh dark blue. These printed-in-Ireland stamps replace the British overprints which the Free State has been using since its creation in 1922.

The design—by R. J. King—symbolizes the Christian renaissance in Ireland, attended by acolytes, St. Patrick is shown with outstretched hands invoking God's blessing on the supernatural light denoted by the flame of the Paschal fire ascending from his feet. The frame incorporates an outline of the Bell shrine of St. Patrick, an eleventh century structure.

As a youth of 16, Patrick was seized by raiders, taken to Ireland and sold as a slave. He herded swine in Antrim for six years before escaping to Gaul. He studied, became a bishop and returned to Ireland in 432 to preach the Gospel of Christ.

Many miraculous stories are told of Patrick's fight against the Druids' faith and their age-old pagan customs. At Tara, the ancient capital, he narrowly escaped execution and composed his famous Loric, or hymn of protection. Taking a shamrock from the green sod, he used it to explain the Trinity. Idols fell at his approach, and his miracles impressed the pagans.

For 61 years St. Patrick preached converted and baptized. He died March 17, 493.

Latvia's Dictator

In 1905 the University of Nebraska conferred a bachelor of science degree on a young Lettish graduate named Karlis Umanis. Today he is president, premier and dictator of Latvia. His nation celebrated his 60th birthday on September 4 by issuing a set of nine stamps bearing his portrait.

Because of his activities in Latvia's independence movement—the Letts were trying to break away from Russia—Umanis found it wise to come to America. He was already a trained agriculturist, so he studied further in this field. He worked in a Lincoln, Neb., dairy, then made cheese in Texas, returning to Riga in 1913.

Umanis became Latvia's first prime minister in 1918. Since then he has been premier in eight cabinets, sometimes carrying the foreign minister's portfolio too. He is a large man, with tremendous energy. Lettish newspapers call him "Leader."

Colors and values of the Umanis set are: 3-santimus orange, yellow green, 10-c dark green, 20-c red violet, 25-c black violet, 20-c blue, 35-c indigo, 40-c brown, 50-c olive gray. It is a comparatively small issue, only 100,000 complete sets being released.

Puerto Rico Stamp

A 3-cent stamp honoring Puerto Rico, another in the Territorial commemorative series, will go on sale at the Appleton post office as soon after Nov. 25 as the stamps are available. Postmaster Stephen Ballester said yesterday.

The purple stamp carries a reproduction of the old governor's palace in Puerto Rico known as "La Fortaleza," which name appears at the lower edge of the design in dark gothic on a light ground. Above the central design is the inscription "U. S. Postage" in dark gothic.

In each upper corner of the stamp are three sunbursts of ornamental grille work. Similar grille work in each lower corner is partly obscured by 8-sided panels with dark ground, containing the inscription "3c" in white. At the lower edge of the stamp is the name "Puerto Rico" in white-face roman.

Stamp collectors who want first-day cancellations of the stamp which will be first offered for sale Nov. 25 at San Juan, Puerto Rico, may send not more than 10 envelopes to the postmaster there, with cash or money order as payment. Each cover should bear a pencil endorsement in the upper right corner to show the number of stamps desired.

Request to the San Juan postmaster for cover service should be mailed in time for dispatch by the steamer sailing from New York on Nov. 11.

Eastern Star Plans Clintonville Bazaar

Clintonville — Plans for a public bazaar at the Masonic hall Wednesday, Nov. 10, were discussed at a meeting of the Order of Eastern ## Star on Tuesday evening. Those appointed as chairmen of the various committees are: Mrs. Norman Hanson, supper; Mrs. F. C. Walch, dining room; Mrs. Fred Holmes, candy sale; Mrs. Elmer Lemko, quilt; and Mrs. W. L. Gould, bingo games.

Arrangements are also underway for a public card party to begin at the temple Friday afternoon, Oct. 22, by the S.O.E. club.

A Halloween dance on Friday evening, Oct. 29, is being planned by members of the Masonic lodge and the Order of Eastern Star.

A report on the Wisconsin Grand Chapter sessions held last week at Madison was given by Mrs. Fred Holmes, who with the worthy matron, Mrs. A. V. Chamberlin, were the delegates from the local chapter.

Earl Polzin, Waupaca county traffic officer, was the after dinner speaker at the Lions meeting Tuesday evening at the clubhouse on Long lake. Polzin explained the work of the sheriff's department in its program to prevent highway accidents. The officer said that Clintonville had fewer accidents than any other part of the county during the last year.

Three homes in this city are quarantined with scarlet fever, according to a statement made Wednesday by Dr. Robert Braun, city health officer. He said that the cases are not serious, and from present indications there is no danger of an epidemic. The officer stated that there are no other cases of contagious disease in the city at present.

Relations Board May Favor Either Of Labor Groups

CIO and A. F. of L. Agree In Thinking Judges Biased, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—Both the CIO and A. F. of L. in their respective national conventions held this week in Atlantic City and Denver, agree on one thing—they don't like the National Labor Relations board and think it is biased.

But their reasons for disliking the labor board differ from those advanced by employers who think the board is arbitrary and prejudiced in favor of all unions as against all employers. The CIO and the A. F. of L. have a grievance which can best be stated as being a desire to have the board decide cases their way.

This business of attacking judges—the members of the National Labor Relations Board act in a judicial capacity in countless cases—has become rather popular these days, having been formally initiated by a nationwide radio address by the president of the United States on Feb. 5 last. If you don't like the way a case is decided, it now is considered ethical and proper under the new deal to call the judge by any name you choose, or at least to contend that he is senile because he is over seventy years of age or that he was once so intelligent that he actually earned a decent income in the practice of his profession.

But the CIO and the A. F. of L. are attacking the judges on the labor board mostly because the latter do not interpret the law in their favor 100 per cent of the time. The sympathy of the country might well be extended to the members of the labor board, who, after all, are trying to administer the clumsy provisions of the law, which is really unworkable if an endeavor is really made to administer it impartially. The labor unions think the Wagner act is a great thing when it helps them get members, but, when it gets into their way, then it is a very poor piece of legislation and needs amendment. The kick of the two national labor groups is against the administration of the law, but their protest in reality is against the ambiguous and arbitrary phrases written into the law itself. The Wagner act says:

"The board shall decide in each case whether in order to insure to employees the full benefit of their right of self-organization and to collective bargaining, and otherwise to effectuate the purposes of this act, the unit appropriate for the purposes of collective bargaining shall be the employer unit, craft unit, plant unit, or subdivision thereof."

Board Omnipotent

Here is a case of delegated power which makes the labor board omnipotent. It can look over a labor situation and decide upon the vertical or industrial union as the proper unit for bargaining, thereby helping the CIO, or it can say the craft unit shall be separate and independent from the rest of the employees in the plant, and thus favor the A. F. of L. Such a delegation of power might be thought to be unconstitutional, because no standards of measurement have been prescribed by congress, but until the Supreme Court of the United States passes specifically on this phase of the law, the labor board has full power to use its own discretion.

The labor board has tried to balance its decisions, in the sense that it has tried to look at each case separately on its merits, and the result has been that the CIO sometimes wins and sometimes it is the A. F. of L. But the issue is best stated in an exchange of letters recently between John P. Frey, president of the A. F. of L.'s metal trades department and Chairman Madden of the labor board. Mr. Frey wrote as follows:

"In many of the industries, and particularly those employing semi-skilled labor and so-called mass production workers, there are also employed skilled craftsmen. In most instances some of the latter are members of the international union of their craft or occupation. In other instances all of the skilled craftsmen are members of their respective organizations. Almost invariably these skilled workmen have verbal or written agreements with their employers.

"In many of the industries, these skilled workers are in a minority, perhaps a small one, the outstanding majority being so-called mass production or semi-skilled workers.

Skilled In Minority

"It is obvious that if a vote of all the employees were taken on the question of establishing one organization as the sole body to represent all of the employees that the semi-skilled or production workers could easily prove a majority in favor of the organization they desired. A vote taken on such a basis and under such circumstances would be a denial of the rights of a minority, the very minority who had first established trade-union organization, a minority having a prior right to consideration."

Mr. Madden replied that the policy of the labor board has been, first, to try to get the local unions to agree or to leave it to their parent organizations, and second, where there are no settlements, in this way, the board "seems plainly to have the responsibility of decision." He goes on to say then that the board is guided by the wishes of the men in the plant, "ascertained in such a way as to make their choice a free one." He adds:

"But as to just how these general principles would work out in a particular case which might come before the board, neither I nor the board can speak with finality except in the decision of our cases."

Small wonder that, when discretionary power is used in a way that hurts the A. F. of L., it loudly yells its protest and likewise, when the decision goes against the CIO, it jumps on the board, too. This is not the way it was intended that laws should be administered. Justice Cardozo spoke of "delegation run riot" when the NRA was before the court, and some day, when a test case comes, it is not wholly improbable that the supreme court may say that collective bargaining is all right, but congress, if it wishes to have the "appropriate unit" designated by the labor board, should specify the standards of measurement. Congress and not the labor board ought to be writing the laws of the land.

Player Has Little to Lose by Bidding Game

Mr. Culbertson is conducting, through his column, a national examination of bridge players. He is himself by subtracting from 100 the points for each wrong answer.

BY ELY CULBERTSON

Question 1 in the National Rating Bridge Examination appeared yesterday. It was:

Question 11. Both sides vulnerable. You are West, and your holding is:

A 2 ♥ K Q 7 5 ♦ 9 6 4 ♠ 8 6

South dealt and the bidding proceeded:

South West North East
1 spade Pass 2 diamonds Pass
4 diamonds Pass 5 spades Pass
6 spades Pass Pass

What is your opening lead, and why?

Answer: You should lead a diamond. On the bidding North and South have a total of at least eight diamonds, perhaps nine. You have four diamonds, therefore your partner is very short. He may be able to ruff the first lead. But almost certainly (unless North made a "psychic" diamond takeout originally) your partner will be able to ruff your second diamond lead, when you get in with the trump ace. This is very apt to be the entire deal:

NORTH
♥ J 8 7
♦ 10 4
♣ K J 10 5
♠ A Q 4 3

WEST
♥ A 2
♦ K Q 9 7 5
♣ 9 7 6 4

EAST
♥ 5 4 3
♦ J 8 6 3 2
♠ J 10 7 2

SOUTH
♥ K Q 10 9 6
♣ A 3 2
♠ K 9 5

Add two points to your score if you selected the right opening. No demerit for heart king opening; two points demerit for any other lead.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question 12. You are West, declarer at a four spade contract. Your hand and dummy are as follows:

WEST
♦ 9 8 5
♣ A K
♠ A Q 10

EAST
♥ K Q 9 8
♦ J 10 6 4
♣ 9 8 6
♠ K 8 5

North opened the heart queen and continued hearts. South winning the second and third tricks with the ace and king. South then led a diamond. How do you play from this point, and why?

TODAY'S HAND.

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

♦ 7 6 3
♣ J 6 2
♠ A K 9 3 2

WEST
♥ J 4 3
♦ K 9 2
♣ A 9 8 5 3
♠ J 7

EAST
♥ K Q 10 6 8
♦ K J 5 4
♣ Q 4
♠ K Q 10 5

SOUTH
♥ A K 7 5
♦ A 10 8
♣ K 10 7
♠ 8 6 4

The bidding:

South West North East
1 spade Pass 2 clubs Pass
3 no trump Pass 3 no trump (final bid)

Attention is called to North's last bid. I have heard many players, with hands of precisely the North type, pass to two no trump on the not unreasonable ground that they had "already advertised their full strength and therefore had no right to bid again." It is quite true that the same values should not be bid

Cotton Heads Double Duty Beauty Aids

BY ELSIE PIERCE

No well-appointed beauty chest can be without a roll of absorbent cotton or cleansing tissues. These, to my mind, head the list of "double duty" aids. The fact is that they do more than double duty... pinch-hitting in any number of emergencies. The absorbent cotton pad becomes a cream carrier and remover and is, of course, just as valuable to apply tonic or astringent. And for astringent the cotton can be folded in such a way as to serve as puffer to help keep the chin line firm. Its versatility is amazing. Any woman, it seems to me, can name dozens of little emergencies that are nobly bridged by a mere wad of cotton. It rises to real beauty heights in pinch-hitting for the powder puff. Certainly by using once and discarding one avoids the danger of germ transfer.

No less lofty a place on the Beauty Must List is occupied by the little cleansing tissues. They can be used to wipe off cream, to dust desk, wipe shoes, bags and what-not. They are perfect handkerchiefs particularly when one has a cold.

Hand Lotion Necessary

Then there's hand lotion which has its very specialized mission and should be used for the purpose every time the hands are washed. Come this season of the year, however, and you find hand lotion doing a double duty job, finding its way down to legs and thighs, over arms and shoulders. As soon as cold blasts begin to blow sandpaper skin sets in and there's nothing like an old-fashioned scrubbing with soap and water and fairly stiff-bristled brush, plus thorough rinsing in cool water, thorough drying and a hand lotion massage to keep the skin "all over" like silk.

We could add to our list the lovely lemon which fills a high niche on the list of double-duty beauty aids; olive oil has its place too; and even the bottle of natural nail polish is called upon to stop a stocking run.

The nice thing about these double-duty aids is that they seem such well beauty bargains.

My complete new booklet "Beauty by Exercise" (Booklet 202) is yours for ten cents. It covers the subject thoroughly. Send for it, giving your name and full address to the Bell Library, c/o this newspaper, 247 West 43rd Street, New York, N. Y. (Copyright, 1937.)

Many Men are Jealous of Daughter's Boy Friends

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—I have been married twenty-three years and have two girls, one 18, the other 16 years old. As long as the children were young, all was harmony in our home. But now that the girls have grown up into beautiful young women, there come the boy friends and late hours. Two or three times, sometime four times a week, they are out and do not come home until 12 or 1 o'clock or even 2 o'clock, and when I told them how indecent this was and forbade them to do it my wife took their part and told me I was old-fashioned and that I should let them enjoy life while they were young. This brought about such dissension that I have left my family to live alone. Did I do the right thing? And was it best for all of us? Don't you think my daughters acted selfishly and without love, and that there is no meaning in their life? W. M. K.

DOROTHY DIX

Answer: I think that you are perhaps one of the fathers who, without realizing it, are a little jealous of their daughters' boy friends. Many men are like that. It comes with a shock to some fathers that their girls have grown up and are interested in other men besides them and that Father isn't the center of their universe any more.

Old Gardener Says:

BY E. I. FARRINGTON

Lilacs can be planted as late as November and the garden maker can be almost certain that they will live and thrive. In fact, fall planting is better than Spring planting because lilacs begin to grow very early. This early season growth is related when planting is delayed. Lilacs are not at all particular as to soil, but they are heavy feeders and will give better flowers if a liberal supply of well-rotted barnyard manure is dug into the ground around them. If manure is not available, a complete fertilizer can be substituted. Although lilacs prefer a sunny location, they will grow and bloom successfully in partial shade. There are many desirable varieties of lilacs offered in the catalogues, and the gardener who wishes to plant them is urged to study the lists, make his selection now, and plant as soon as possible. # My Neighbor Says—

If curtains will not hang evenly, slip a rod through the lower hems and let it remain a few days.

To clean picture frames and glasses, wash with warm water and ammonia (a teaspoonful to a quart of water). For gilt frames, use the water in which onions have been boiled, as it will restore their brightness. (Copyright, 1937.)

Adventures in Tibet

IV—PARTING OF THE CARAVAN

The high plains of Tibet supply grass for several kinds of wild animals. One day Rawling and Hargreaves came near a herd of wild donkeys. They looked with interest upon the beasts which, when tame, perform much of the transport work in central Asia and elsewhere.

Another adventure of the ponies came when the party followed the tracks of a wild yak. Men and ponies went up a mountain side, and reached a narrow ledge. Two ponies slipped over the side of the cliff, and rolled down to a place 200 feet below. No one had been riding them at the time they fell.

Making their way to the ponies by a roundabout path, the men found them bruised but with no bones broken. The search for the wild yak was given up, but an antelope was seen and shot for food.

The journey toward the place they were to meet Hargreaves was a hard one. For some days the little party passed across land which had no grass on which the ponies could graze. High mountains barred the way in one place, and they climbed to a height of 20,000 feet above sea level before they found a pass.

At last Rawling came to a point within a few miles of the place where Hargreaves and the rest of the caravan had promised to meet him. He gazed across the plain, but to his dismay he could see no sign of men or beasts.

The Wolf Fought Against the dog.

Hungry wolves had been following the caravan, waiting their chance to steal sheep. The camp dog caught sight of a large gray wolf, and ran to attack it. The wolf fought against the dog, but did not hurt it much before the men were able to come to the rescue.

While passing over a great plain three and a half miles above sea level the party discovered a number of lakes. Some of these lakes contained salt water. One of them covered an area of about 50 square miles, and on its shore Hargreaves and most of the porters made a camp. Later he was to meet Rawling at a spot many miles away.

Leaving the rest by the shore of the lake, Rawling and two of the natives mounted ponies and traveled southward. Before long, they found a lake almost twice as large as the one beside which Hargreaves was camping.

Yaks, antelopes and wolves roamed about the land around the lake. One night wolves came so close to the ponies that they broke away from where they had been tied. The next day was spent in searching for them, and all were found.

Another adventure of the ponies came when the party followed the tracks of a wild yak. Men and ponies went up a mountain side, and reached a narrow ledge. Two ponies slipped over the side of the cliff, and rolled down to a place 200 feet below. No one had been riding them at the time they fell.

Class Shouldn't be Held Up for One Slow Student

BY ANGELO PATRI

"What's the matter, Robert?"

"O, I'm in a mess at school. Mr. Rogers says he wants to see you or father."

"What in the world? Did you do anything wrong, son?"

"Not that I know of. They think I'm rebellious and conceited and selfish. They say that I am not cooperative. Doesn't cooperation include teachers' mother? Or is it one-sided, the teacher's side?"

"I don't know. What happened. Tell me. Then I can think better."

"I'm bored stiff in class. Especially math and history. Today for instance, we spent the whole math period on one point, not even a point, but an example. Just a routine process. That was because Maurice couldn't see why he changed signs. We all had to keep working the same ground over and over because Maurice, who will never know when or why he changes signs, was in trouble."

"Well, I'd work the example in my head, and then go on with some problem I found in the back of the book. And did Miss Rich get mad? She told me to hand over my book. I was rude. I was wasting her time. I was holding up the class. What I wasn't she didn't say."

"Finally I said, 'I'm sorry, Miss Rich, that I'm such a nuisance to you. I can't help knowing what Maurice does not know. And I don't see any reason for your calling me things like this either. I'm bored stiff in this classroom every day and I'm just as tired of Maurice as you are.' Then she sent me to the office and Mr. Rogers lectured me in the same strain. It all comes down to this: Either I keep step with Maurice, who has stopped the procession now for weeks, or I get out. I'll have to get out."

And Robert had stated the case exactly. He was a genius in mathematics, and a whizz at history. He could do a bookful of problems while Maurice prepared to get ready. Yet he, and others with him, had to sit and yawn, and wait, and waste their days because they belonged to a class in a public school and the basic idea of the public school, said the principal, was democracy. One child as good as another. No favors shown. Now I ask you whether that is the idea of democracy as expressed in the public school?

It is not my notion of it. Democracy gives each person his place and opportunity. It allows him freedom of action up to the place where that action interferes with the peace and happiness of others. Why level the group to the lowest grade? If you cannot lift the lower

Nearly always the oldest daughter in a family has a terrible time educating Father up to the point of not foaming at the mouth when she begins having beaux. But after a time Father gets used to boys over-running the house and to taking his paper and hunting whatever uncumbered place he can find in which to read it, while the youngsters have rolled back the carpet and turned on the radio at full blast and are dancing in the living room.

Also, I think you have forgotten your youth. No doubt you tell your children that when you were young you never desired any amusement beyond staying at home with your dear parents and reading an improving book. You never went to parties or stayed out later than 10 o'clock. You never went gallivanting around the country in an automobile with silly boys and girls who were giggling over nothing and laughing and yelling. As for kissing a girl, you never did such a shocking thing, and their mother would have screamed for help if you had suggested such a thing. What the young people of today are coming to, you shudder to think.

All of which is parental propaganda, as you well know. For you know that when you were young you were just as fun-loving and restless and craved excitement just as much as the youngsters do today, and if you didn't fly around in an automobile it was because there were none. But old Dobbin could tell tales of your one-handed driving, and there has been more than one kiss exchanged on the parlor sofa.

Perhaps if you would remember your own youth, you would be more sympathetic toward your daughters who are only following the course of nature in wanting to have boy friends and go places and do things while they are young. It is just what you did when you were young and, although your father prophesied that you would come to no good end with your gadding, you turned out pretty well after all, didn't you?

And remember that customs have changed since your day and things that were considered almost scandalous then are such matters of course now nobody notices them. There are more parties now than there used to be, and they begin later and end later. Most of the dances don't start now until 10 or 11 o'clock at night, so it is useless to expect a girl to get home at Papa's bedtime. The fun is just beginning. No one will deny that it would be more sensible for dances to begin at 8 and end at 12, but inasmuch as they don't you can't ring the curfew on the girls too early.

My advice to you is to go back home and make peace with your wife and girls and be more lenient with them. All of you must be miserable with this break-up of the family and with each side cherishing a feeling of resentment. So kiss and make up. You need your family and the girls need you for protection, and they will be a lot more willing to take your advice if you don't make it so drastic and arbitrary.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am an example of how a mother can ruin a daughter by spoiling her. My mother indulged me in everything I wanted to do or have from the time I was a baby. Right or wrong, I had my way. When I grew up I married the best man I ever knew, but I forced him to keep the house, cook, scrub, do the laundry and care for the baby. I would frequently go to my mother's house and stay two or three weeks at a time without going home to my husband. He tried to defend himself on several occasions, but with my mother's support, wouldn't let him make first base. Now my mother is dead and my husband is making big money. He demands his freedom so that he may marry a girl he fell in love with during the time that I was enjoying myself making life miserable for him. Our child will soon be a man and he is devoted to his father, but very little respect for me. What can I do now?

Answer: Nothing will undo the wrong you have done or give you back the place in your husband's and son's affection that you have forfeited.

That is the terrible thing about life. We can't undo what we have done. We can't go back and correct our mistakes and avoid the blunders that we made. We can't wash away the results of our sins with our tears of repentance. When we have killed love we can no more bring it to life again than the murderer can resuscitate the corpse of the victim he has slain.

No doubt your mother is more to blame for your conduct than you are yourself, but you are the one who will have to pay the price of her weakness and folly. And that is something that always think of when I see these spoiling their children. I marvel that they do not see what a crime they are committing against the ones they love.

It would seem that the stupidest woman in the world would know that the child whose every whim is indulged, the child who is never taught any self-control, the child who is never taught obedience, the child who is allowed to do just as it pleases, the child who is actually taught to be selfish and arrogant, is bound to grow up selfish and self-centered, a law-breaker, without character or purpose or stamina or any of the qualities that fit it to make a success of life.

A good mother is the greatest blessing God ever gave a child. A weak and foolish mother is the greatest curse. (Copyright, 1937.)

FASHION TREND

● At no time of the year are knitted dresses as popular among all types of customers as they are in the early fall. The reason for their popularity at this time is that knitted suits and dresses are the perfect types for very early fall wear. Then, too, these same costumes may be worn right through the winter under heavy coats. Knitwear answers the fall need for types of dresses suited for travel, school and campus wear, active sports and business. In other words, they are the perfect casuals which women can wear any place.

There is a great variety in these knits, all depending on interesting yarn and individual details to make them decidedly different.

Sports costumes have taken on a new air of distinction due to the fact that women are spending increasingly more time each day dressed in sports outfits. The casual sports costume has definitely become the back-bone of every woman's wardrobe because she realizes that this type of dress is comfortable, stands up under hard wear, and also does decorative things to her. Not every woman, however, wishes the sporty type of dress. For these we have included the soft, dressy types—that are daintily feminine, but in a more subtle manner.

STYLE

● The most significant change in style is the new silhouette which is straighter and more simple. The 1937 fall dress is slim and smartly fitted without exaggeration. Rich simplicity takes the place of tricky styling. This change should be welcomed by all women since simplicity of line sets off the feminine figure to advantage.

Skirts are straighter, although fullness is still popular. However, this fullness falls toward the front or back rather than on the sides. Completely straight skirts are among the very newest. Skirt lengths are slightly shorter—the average length being 13½ inches from the floor. Some younger customers prefer theirs 1½ and 1½ inches from the floor.

Sleeves are less tricky. In the soft, dressy type, sleeves are draped casually without exaggeration. Tailored sleeves are fashioned to give modified squareness.

Waistlines for the most part are normal. The newest trend, however, is to give a slightly lower waistline effect. This is accomplished by lowering the belt or having jackets end just on the hip bones. The new style trends flatter the feminine figure without exaggerated fitting or the appearance of bulkiness.

SIZES

Formerly our dresses have been sizes from 12 to 20 or 14 to 42. This season Bradley felt it advisable to introduce half sizes to accommodate more women who want Bradley Knits.

Our size schedule now is: 12 to 20; 14 to 42; 16½ to 26½.

COLOR

● As for color, there are two definite influences in the fall shades. The warm, rich tones are taken from South American pottery, flowers and jewelry. There is more light in them than in last year's darker colors. Some of the most important among these shades are:—

|                 |                  |
|-----------------|------------------|
| CANYON RED      | POTTERY BROWN    |
| CHILI COPPER    | SALVADOR WINE    |
| POTTERY RED     | MAYAN BLUE       |
| AMAZON GREEN    | GUATEMALAN GREEN |
| BLACK           | BEATEN GOLD      |

THREE teams are tied for first in the Industrial bowling league as the result of matches at Arcade alleys last evening. Everett Wegner, city match champ, singled the alleys with a high 245 game and 658 series while Tuttle Press koglers registered a 1,014 game and Woolen Mills chalked up a classy 2,825 team series.

Atlas Embossers dropped two games to Woolen Mills to lose their hold on the league lead. Ray Crane led the victors with a 221 game while De Young hit 215. Lyle VanderVelden was high for the losers with games of 217 and 212 and Kranzsch tumbled the pins for a 216 game.

Winning two games from Post-Crescent, Appleton Coated went into a 3-way tie for the top rung. Carl Heinrich tied the way with games of 206, 203 and 201 for a 609 series and Irv Weiss hit 200 for the losers.

Fox River Wins
Roy Reinko approached Wegner's scoring spree for Fox River by rolling a 223 game in the team's 2-game win over Tuttle "Cubs." Bruno Bialkowski led the Cubs with a 223 game.

Telephone company outscored Atlas Printers in total pins but dropped two games. Jerry Zapp tallied a 223 game for the winners and Klein pined a 200 while Roy McCallum hit 210 and Ayers had 202 for the losers.

Wire Works took two games from Wadhams Oils with Joecks rolling a 202 game and Louis Horn hitting a 519 series. Robert Kranhold scattered the maples for a 234 game and F. Yelg hit 212 for the losers.

Two games were credited to Machine company over Fond Sports as Wayne rolled a 200 game for the winners. Fond Sports failed to show any stuff and would probably appreciate it if their scores were skipped.

Power company bowlers (?) moved out of the cellar by taking three games from Schlafer Hardware company. George Tomlinson hit 202 for the winners while Davey McGee was high for the losers with a 225 series.

Tuttle Press won two from Montgomery Ward with Arnold Kelly battling the maples for a 243 game. O. Strutz rolled 219. C. Kunitz hitting 204 and R. Lesselyong scoring 207. Art Stremmel topped the losers with a 516 game.

DISCOLLO WAS A CUB

Milwaukee — How many college football teams can report they are coached by ex-major league baseball players? Marquette university answers "Ave!" Paddy Driscoll of the Golden Avalanche shortstopped for the Chicago Cubs in 1917.

The Badgers and the whole student body here, of course, will be celebrating their announced homecoming against the Hawkeyes.

But another, and unannounced, homecoming will be that of Ira Tubbs, new head coach at Iowa this year, who Saturday will be football mentoring in Wisconsin turf for the first time in the eight years since he left his coaching position at Superior, State Teachers college in 1923.

Coached Ernie Nevers
Tubbs, who coached Ernie Nevers, peerless fullback, and John (Bone) Hancock, at Superior Central high school before he moved over to the Ped college, came out of retirement and accepted a coaching position at Miami, Fla. university in 1935. He did so well there in the past two seasons that he earned a contract to succeed Ossie Solem at Iowa this year, when Solem took over the vacancy at Syracuse university.

In addition to his coaching ability, Tubbs is noted as an inventor of athletic equipment. He holds patents on a vaicless football, elastic sided pants, and several more gadgets.

Football Genius
It is with no national reputation as a coach, but with a well-earned reputation as a football genius that Tubbs makes his Big Ten debut at Madison Saturday.

A firm exponent of the double wing-back system, Tubbs' teams since his high school coaching days have been noted for the intricacy of their plays from this formation. The Badgers, easy victors over Chicago last week, no doubt are bearing this in mind and anticipating something of a struggle with the Iowans.

Coach Tubbs, under a one-year contract at Iowa, has to "shoot the works" this season. He needs to produce a winning football team or, else, . . . and that means that although he may come back to the state of Wisconsin with something of a homecoming spirit in his heart, he won't be encouraging a happy homecoming for the University of Wisconsin.

Chaff 'n Chatter

By Gordon H. McIntyre

BENNY WAGNER, Fond du Lac's star backfield man, won't be with the Cardinals when they play Appleton High school eleven here Saturday for Benny is in the hospital. He suffered an ankle injury several weeks ago, infection set in and just about the time it appeared it was checked broke out again in the form of another ailment which forced the youth to undergo an operation.

Fond du Lac High school students gave a benefit dance in his behalf the other afternoon.

Talk about picking grid scores — the woman who won the Press-Gazette contest last week picked nine scores correctly! I'm going to ask her to pick a couple scores for me in some of the pools they have around town.

Hans Ahl, Oshkosh, who fights on the Oney Johnston post amateur card here next week, won a 1-round K.O. victory over Henry Pomeroy, Milwaukee, last night at Fond du Lac. Pomeroy was one of Richie Mitchell's prospects and was supposed to be good. In another windup go Jimmy Richardson, Fond du Lac, defeated Harold Fero, Oshkosh.

The Chicago White Sox won $549.54 apiece when they copped the city series from the Chicago Cubs. Not so bad for a couple extra days' work.

Note to Joseph E. Tesar, secretary of the Recreation and Waupaca County Classic Bowling leagues at Clintonville: Send the score sheets and the standings for your leagues. We'll be more than glad to use the stories each week. Would prefer that you mail the sheets and standings as each league completes its bowling for the week.

Pro football league statistics released the other day reveal that Clarke Hinkle has gained the most ground for the Packers, 161 yards, but that Janowski, who has gained 154 yards, has the best average, 6.1 yards to 3.3 yards. Grosvener of the Cards has gained 283 yards but his average is 3.5. Janowski's average is highest for the loop.

Tinsley of the Cards has caught the most passes, 12, while Johnny Blood rates fourth with 8 and Don Hutson is tied for 6th with three other chaps with 7.

Tinsley also is the high scorer for the loop with five touchdowns. Hinkle has scored three touchdowns, two points after and one field goal for 23 points which rates him third.

The Fox River Valley Major league's 209 scores for the week-end of Oct. 3 were mislaid with the contest letters last week and didn't get into the sheet on Saturday. It's a scratch league and here the marks are: A. Kelley, Appleton, 217; O. Goessens, Kimberly, 236; A. Gehring, Appleton, 215; R. Nehls, Appleton, 202; R. Reinker, Appleton, 203; R. Schmidt, Appleton, 202; A. VanEck, Kimberly, 202; J. Goessens, Kimberly, 200; R. Currie, Appleton, 202.

Appleton High school rifle club so far has been forced to abandon the sport because, it is said, Armory G wants a rather large fee for use of the range. That's too bad and it seems something should be done about the matter. The youngsters don't use more than a couple dollars worth of light in a whole season and just what the rental fee should be $100 is a question. Can't the governing board of the armory do something about it?

Following are a few paragraphs pilfered from John P. Carmichael of the Chicago Daily News following the Yankee party after the series:

One of the social "lions" at the Yankee festive board was none other than John Montague, the erstwhile mystery man of a thousand tales. He and George Raft, the actor, signed more menus than all the Yankees put together.

Mrs. Emmet Ormsby, wife of the American League arbiter, long since has retired from ball games. Unfortunately the few games to which she went, a spell back, were those in which her husband just happened to be "tops" as a burglar, bum, bandit, etc., in the opinion of the stands.

"Emmett always said one had to be able to take it in his business," she laughed. "But I couldn't, so I quit going."

As if Bill Terry, the Giant manager, didn't have enough troubles with the Yankees, he came up with a tag for parking outside the clubhouse as the insult to injury. Yankee policemen, no doubt.

Joe McCarthy now takes rank with John McGraw and Miller Huggins as having thrice managed world series champions. The American League now has won twenty-one world series to thirteen for the National.

Joe DiMaggio, the Yankee star, telling Tommy Laird, the "Frisco" sports editor, about his dad at the series. "Honestly," Joe laughed, "I've never seen a man so happy in all my life as my father. They tell me that when I hit that home run he was so excited he opened his mouth to cheer and not a word came out. He's had the time of his life."

"Lefty" Gomez, pride of the Yankee menace, found himself pumping the hand of Col. Rupert and hearing himself say: "And remember, Colonel, you cut me $5,000 last year." The colonel roared, it wouldn't be surprising if Gomez won't get it back in the form of a nice valetide check, even as Charlie Ruffing was handed $1,400 before the series opened, said sum being what he was docked in wages for holding out into May last spring.

Eyston in Assault on Land Travel Records

Bonneville Salt Flats, Utah — Captain George E. T. Eyston roared off in his "Speed of the Winds" at 1:00 A. M. (3:00 A. M. C. S. T.) today in an attempt to break all land travel records for distance runs up to 24 hours.

His record assault, originally scheduled to start at midnight, was delayed an hour by last-minute preparations.

A small crowd of newspapermen and racing officials, huddled near flares in the cold, clear desert night, witnessed the start. The British racer's second this month. He set out on a similar run Oct. 4 but was forced by a mechanical breakdown to stop after only 13 laps of the 11-mile salt course.

Ab Jenkins of Salt Lake City holds the 12-hour record of 160.17 miles an hour and the 24-hour mark of 137.27, both established here this summer.

Rests on Outcome
Of Purdue ScrapBoilermakers Will Give
Northwestern Stiff
Test Saturday

BY WILLIAM WEEKES
CHICAGO —(P)—Saturday, the day when Purdue's Boilermakers invade Dwyer stadium, looks like tipoff day on Northwestern's chances of hanging on to the Big Ten football title.

The Wildcats weren't the choice to repeat before the season started — Minnesota having been accorded the favorite's position — and their victories over Iowa State and Michigan didn't prove to Coach Lynn Waldorf that he has another title eleven. But, if they take care of Purdue decisively, the defending champions probably will have reason for hoping to get through the rest of their conference schedule without a beating.

Although they took a beating from Ohio State in their opening Big Ten start, the Boilermakers showed so much improvement in overcoming Carnegie Tech last week, that they appear ready to fulfill post-season promise. If they are that good Saturday, Northwestern's hopes will either be crushed or enhanced.

Stresses Line Play
Waldorf continued to devote most of his attention to the Wildcat line yesterday, trying to improve its offensive play. Michigan's forwards outplayed Northwestern last week, with the result that the champions' running attack failed to produce a touchdown threat, and the scouts reported that Purdue's line is just as good as Michigan's.

The Boilermakers spent their last hard practice on polishing up the running and passing attack built around brilliant Cecil Isbell, and in going over a defense calculated to stop Northwestern's Don Heap, Jack Ryan, Bernie Jefferson and Bob Swisher.

Down at Illinois, Bob Zupke was almost outspokenly pleased with the improvement in offensive power as the Illini wound up heavy work for Saturday's battle at Indiana. Coach By McMillin of the Hoosiers was forced to patch up his backfield when he learned that Bill Anderson, a passing star against Minnesota, would not be able to operate against Illinois because of injuries.

Secret Practice
Minnesota practiced in secret as Bernie Bierman experimented with backfield combinations in preparation for the Michigan invasion. The Wolverines, whose work pleased Harry Kipke earlier in the week, lapsed so far that they were ordered out for a night drill in addition to the regular afternoon session.

Irv Tubbs gave Iowa's squad another long offensive scrimmage in an effort to develop punch before meeting Wisconsin. The Badgers were let off with a light drill to permit healing of an assortment of bruises.

Chicago staged another spirited workout and showed enough spirit offensively to generate hopes of a victory over Princeton this week. At Notre Dame, Elmer Layden indicated he planned to take a chance on sophomores against Carnegie Tech by using Joe Thiesing of Clintonville at fullback during the entire drill and turning the quarterback duties over to Steve Sitko of Fort Wayne, Ind., for a big share of the time.

Woodworth Takes Over Cincinnati Grid Team

Cincinnati —(P)—Wade "Red" Woodworth, former All American guard at Northwestern university, took in charge as head coach today a University of Cincinnati football team which has lost four straight games this season under coaching of H. Ressler "Rus" Cohen.

President Raymond Walters announced Woodworth's appointment along with acceptance by the athletic committee of the board of directors of Cohen's resignation.

Cohen came to Cincinnati from Vanderbilt university at Nashville as line coach.

Traynor to Pilot Pirates in 1938

Contract to Manage Pittsburgh in National League Renewed

Pittsburgh —(P)—Harold J. (Pie) Traynor, an old buccaneer himself, will guide the Pirate brig again next year.

President William E. Benswanger of the Steel city's baseball club announced today Traynor had signed a contract to manage the National league entry in 1938.

Benswanger added: "In line with Pirate policy, the contract is for one year."

Traynor was one of the classiest third basemen in the big show during the years he danced at the "hot corner" for Pittsburgh from 1920 until his retirement from active play two years ago.

He succeeded George Gibson as manager in June, 1934.

Problem Child of A. L.
Team Allows Nine
Hits

SCORE IS 6 TO 1

Title Is Fourth Straight
For Southside
Nine

BY WILLIAM WEEKES
CHICAGO —(P)—John Henderson Whitehead, the problem child of the White Sox, hurling the American league to a sweep of autumnal baseball honors yesterday as the Southsiders conquered the Cubs, 6 to 1, for their fourth consecutive Chicago championship.

Whitehead, who has been disciplined for overlooking training rules, the last time early in the regular American league campaign, when he was suspended without pay, had his little troubles, but was at his best when the going was toughest. Three times after they scored their lone run in the first inning, the Cubs started innings with hits, but the 12,000 hardy fans, who attended the series saw little except Whitehead as he hauled himself out of trouble by use of the double play ball.

Allowed 9 Hits

He allowed nine hits, fanned three and did not issue a pass. He did not look as though he would be around long when Stan Hack, the first man to face him, drilled a double to right and scored on Frank Demaree's single off Bozy Berger's leg. He was right there at the finish, however, as he forced Gabby Hartnett to hit into a double play with the bases loaded in the ninth.

The triumph was Whitehead's second of the series as the White Sox followed in the New York Yankees' wake. Curt Davis, who split the Cub pitching with Ted Carleton, was the loser.

The Sox, winners of the 1937, 1933 and 1936 series before they reaffirmed their domination over the Cubs yesterday, went to work on Davis in the second inning, and after he departed at the start of the seventh, picked on Carleton, Singles by Rip Radcliff and Jack Hayes, combined with a walk to Luke Appling, gave the American leaguers two runs in the second, and the same group of boys produced two more on two hits in the fourth.

Appling, who not one hit, a double, in one official time at bat and walked on three other occasions, turned one of his passes into a run

Cornell

Beloit —Despite the 32 to 14 drubbing administered to them by a powerful Cornell aggregation last Saturday at Mt. Vernon, a spirited Beloit college eleven has been working hard in their daily practice sessions at Hancock field in preparation for their second Midwest conference game with Ripon college here Friday night. An excessive number of penalties coupled with three bad breaks resulted in the Beloiters losing their first league tilt.

The game against Cornell was not as bad as the one sided score indicated and Coach "Bud" Butler found several reasons to believe that his squad had improved considerably over their weak showing against Lake Forest two weeks ago. The Beloit aerial attack had the Jovans worried several times and it wasn't until they had pushed across their final touchdown that they felt assured of their third conference victory.

ALTHOUGH his Oregon team lost two games to Utah, H. Glesiner hit a 240 and wound up with a 587 series to grab high scoring honors in the Elks Western league bowling last night at Elks alleys.

Hub Kahn chalked up a 209 and a 558 series to lead the Utah bowlers while Engel and McKee got games of 204 and 202 respectively as Utah made high team game score, 937, and Oregon had high match score, 2,668.

Gonzaga, tied with Utah and Montana for first place in league standings, rapped out a 2-game win over Idaho. For Gonzaga, E. Cooney bowled a 231 game and 558 series and Art Demand wrote down a 206 game. His last two games running 202 and 222, Perschbacher paced Idaho with a 576 series.

With Herb Goldberg shooting a 227 game and 582 series, Montana took two from Stanford, led by Benton's 537.

M. Herner's 212 and 572 and C. A. Green's 224 game were outstanding as Santa Clara outscored Washington in two games. Schwerbel's 536 series was highest on the Washington sheet.

Monmouth Points For Win Saturday

Scots Have Gained Lot of Ground but Haven't Scoring Punch

Monmouth, Ill. — Still seeking its first victory in the Midwest conference, Monmouth college football team goes into action Saturday against Lawrence in a homecoming attraction. The Scots hope to be at nearly full strength with the exception of Chuck Skinner, brilliant junior fullback and punter who will be lost for the rest of the season as a result of a hand injury.

Monmouth coaches still are looking for the solution to the scoring problem. Coe like Cornell was decisively outplayed by the locals but in both cases the Scots failed to connect on their frequent scoring chances. Monmouth completed passes, chalked up sizeable gains by running and bucking, was credited with twice the total yardage and twice the first downs, still could only tie the Kohawks 6 to 6. An even greater superiority in ground gained over the Cornell team two weeks before resulted in a Cornell victory when the opponents completed a lucky pass.

Monmouth's defense seems to be working smoothly. Despite the fact no experienced guards were available and that there are few replacements at end or tackle, the forward wall seems to function well and especially since Clark, center, has shown so well as defensive fullback. The play of Clark at center and Lusk at quarterback has been the sensation of the year for the Scots.

Against the Vikings, Monmouth is expected to start the same men who played practically the whole game against Coe. Finn and Bousella at ends, Vickers and McCulloch at tackle, Vipond and Lawrence at guards, Clark at center. In the backfield Lusk, Wallen, Chambers and Howe.

Knights Work on Their Offense

Play Minnesota Team Saturday in Homecoming Feature

West DePere—Stinging under a 14 to 7 defeat at the hands of Carroll's Pioneers last Saturday and spurred on by the homecoming spirit, the Knights of St. Norbert college will be playing their toughest football game when they meet the Minnesota college conference champions of Gustavus Adolphus, St. Peter, Minn., for the first time at Legion field, DePere, Saturday.

The teams will play before hundreds of returning alumni gathered for St. Norbert's annual two-day homecoming celebration beginning Friday.

Because of their ragged offense all through the first half of the game with the Pioneers, the Saints are spending a solid week of tough scrimmage under the critical eye of Coach Francis (Mickey) McCormick.

With the exception of Bob Hugo, Chilton, fullback, who is definitely out for the remainder of the week with a knee injury, the whole squad will be in first class condition. Wagner Fink, Mayville, regular fullback and best scoring threat, who

STARS IN MARQUETTE LINE

Apparently recovered from injuries and illness which put him under a handicap early in the season, Le Roy (Bunny) Schoemann, center of the Marquette university football team, is ready to carry on the Golden Avalanche steps into an ominous foreign campaign before returning to Milwaukee for the homecoming game with Iowa State, Nov. 13.

Coach Paddy Driscoll's Marquette men will be away for four consecutive weeks, meeting Kansas State at Manhattan, Oct. 16; Michigan State at East Lansing, Oct. 23; Santa Clara at Soldier Field, Chicago, Oct. 30; and Villanova at Philadelphia, Nov. 6.

Schoemann, who earned considerable all-American mention through his brilliant work with the 1936 Marquette eleven, rates as one of the greatest centers in Golden Avalanche history. He is a powerhouse on offense and has never made a bad pass to the backfield. Defensively, he is at his best and last year against Mississippi intercepted five forward passes.

A Milwaukee boy, Bunny is ranked as the best softball pitcher in the metropolitan area. He is 6 feet, 1 inch tall and weighs 191. This is his last year of competition.

Busy Trading Season in Store for Hot Stove Leaguers This Winter

BY SID FEDER

NEW YORK.—(U)—The hot stove league opened its season today on a situation bearing all the earmarks of one of the busiest trading sessions in years.

From end to end of the big leagues, with the possible exception of the World champion New York Yankees, who are satisfied with things as they are, it looked like the ivory will be moved around in wholesale lots. The dealings in diamond material were touched off last week when the Cardinals gave one-for-four in a highly profitable piece of business with the Brooklyn Dodgers, but that was only the start.

Most talk at the moment revolved around the uniforms Van Lingle Mungo and Dizzy Dean will be wearing next season, as well as the changes rumored in the national league pennant winning Giants.

When the Terry Terriers finished getting their cars knocked off by the Yanks in the World series, there was considerable rumor that several members of the current cast would be hanging their hats in new locker rooms, come 1938. Hank Leiber, the power-hitting center-fielder; Hal Schumacher, the right-hander who hasn't been on too good terms with Boss Bill Terry, and even Melvin Ott, idol of the Polo grounds, have been mentioned as trading bait.

Incoming, if you listen to the chatter, will be Mungo, Brooklyn's temperamental fireballer, who spent most of the 1937 season nursing his rage (and a bankroll sliced by suspension) down in the Black Hills of South Carolina, after rowing with the Dodgers. There is also rumor that Diz Dean, after his most disastrous season, will move in from St. Louis to Coogan's bluff.

Cubs Interested in Dean

But the Chicago Cubs may have something to say about that. If you listened to the talk behind the scenes during the series, you could have heard lots of the "experts" telling that the Cubs are ready to lay it on the line for the "great one."

Certain it is that the Cubs are playing no favorites in making over the team that couldn't hold its lead in the National league race. Shortstop Bill Jurgens, pitcher Larry French and walloping outfielder Frank Demaree have been brought up in discussions Cub officials have had with both the St. Louis Cardinals and Cincinnati Reds. And it is known that the Cubs have had long eyes for some time on Mungo or Dean or both.

The Giants could use more power in their lineup. So could the Brooklyn Dodgers, who were a woeful sight for most of the '37 campaign. The Brooklyn already have put Mungo on the block and will let him go in return for some lads who can flail that apple as well as a bundle of cash. If they deal with the Cubs, Demaree is a cinch to be included in any negotiations.

Chilton Eleven Is Undefeated

Kimberly High's Opponent Friday Night Has Perfect Record

Kimberly—The Chilton football squad, which comes here Friday evening for a game with Kimberly high, promises to be one of the strongest squads of the season. Thus far Chilton has had clear sailing and still is undefeated. In addition no opponents have scored on the team. It has averaged about thirty points a game.

The Papermakers also are undefeated in conference games. They won over Bear Creek and Manawa in the first two starts. In non-conference play the Papermakers held Menasha St. Marys to a scoreless tie and lost to the Little Chute Hollanders.

The Papermakers will celebrate homecoming in connection with the game. Plans are well under way for the celebration. An unusual pep meeting will be held late Friday afternoon and a bonfire will precede the game.

A dance will be held at the clubhouse after the game. The dance is open to the alumni, high school students and Chilton.

The Rev. F. C. Reuter took high game honors in the Lutheran Brotherhood league last night at Elks alleys as he rolled a 228 game and a 568 series as his team, Checker Lunch, lost two to Schabo Meats. Schabo paced the winners with a 474 after getting 201 on his second game.

W. Plamann hung up the best series score, a 579, with one game going at 219 as Plamann's Insurance dropped three straight to Lemke's Meats. Ballou and Jahnke each got 565 series, hitting high games of 235 and 205, respectively, and Tornow turned in a 207 for the winners. Lemkes wrote down the best score of the evening 977.

Scoring 2,727 for high match score, the Ideal Photo Shop, paced by Carl Griem's 514, whacked out a 3-game victory over Huesemann's Insurance. R. Risse wrote down a 470 series to lead the Insurance men.

It was the Kansan's twenty-sixth knockout victory in 31 starts.

Badgers Engage in Light Practices Wisconsin Squad Gets Easy Drill for Iowa Invasion Saturday

Madison.—(U)—Light rehearsals were ordered today by Coach Harry Stuhldreher for the remainder of the University of Wisconsin football squad's preparations for a game with Iowa here Saturday.

"The boys have done their heavy work for the week," Stuhldreher said. "There are several players who need the rest because of bruises and other minor injuries."

The Badger coach mentioned John Doyle and Lynn Howland, guards, as the two whose injuries gave him the most concern. Both complained of aching shoulders.

A cold northwest wind swept over the Camp Randall field yesterday while reserves tested their ability on offense against freshmen. The varsity's ground plays netted considerable yardage, but passing was ragged.

While talking with newspapermen after the drill Stuhldreher received a wire message from Coach Ira Tubbs of Iowa. The Hawkeye coach said: "Twenty minute period between halves OK; go easy on us."

Stuhldreher explained an extension of the rest period was arranged to permit band demonstrations and introduction of members of the 1912 Wisconsin football squad, who won the last undisputed Big Ten championship the Badger school has held.

will entrain to Lake Forest, Ill., to meet the veteran Lake Forest college eleven on Farewell field Saturday afternoon.

Coach Elmer A. Lampe, while elated by his team's victory of 14-7 over St. Norbert's college last Saturday, is not taking any chances in facing the Lake Forest eleven this week. Lake Forest's decided win over Beloit marks them as a team not to be under-rated. Their much talked about lateral plays are a continuous threat to any football team.

Change Deer Season

Madison.—(U)—Governor LaFollette has changed the dates of a deer hunting season in 30 counties from Nov. 29 to Dec. 1, inclusive, to Nov. 26 to 28, inclusive.

The revision followed a conference with Assemblyman Paul Alfonsi of Pence in the executive office late yesterday. Alfonsi told the governor he had received numerous requests to appeal for a season that would give "more working men" a chance to hunt.

The season will start on Friday and end Sunday. No change was made in other provisions of the original order announced last week.

COMMON SENSE CONSERVATION

By L.H. KINGSTON

GREEN BAY.—The 3-day deer season this fall is probably the best that the governor could do to satisfy both the hunters and the anti-hunters. It is admittedly a compromise between the 5-day season proposed by the conservation department and a closed season which many residents of northern counties advocated. It is supposed to give some 90,000 citizens who like to hunt deer a L. H. Kingston chance to enjoy their sport at the same time saving many of the deer that would have been killed during the longer open season.

I doubt very much if this 3-day season will accomplish either of the above named purposes. Certainly hunters are going to find 3-days too short for any kind of recreational benefits. Leisurely, sportsmen-like hunting is going to degenerate into something of a mad scramble for venison. And I question whether less deer will be killed in three days than would have been killed in five.

The shorter the season the greater the average "hunter-density." By hunter-density I mean the number of hunters per square mile of deer country per day. This has a great deal to do with the number of deer killed and I'll tell you why.

When there is only one hunter per square mile he sees and perhaps gets a shot at only those deer he himself scares up, but when there are five hunters per square mile each not only gets this same shooting but he also gets shooting at those deer chased up by the other four hunters. This means that the chance of any legal buck getting jumped is five times greater when the hunter-density is five instead of one and it also means that his chance of running within range of another hunter is four instead of zero. Thus we see that an increase of hunter-density from one to five will increase deer killing from one to nine.

It is apparent that one way to prevent excessive slaughter of deer is to hold down hunter-density. A short three day season is certainly not going to do this; in fact, there will be more overcrowding of hunters in the woods this fall than ever before.

Not only this, but the short season is going to make many hunters quick on the trigger. Knowing the time is short they are very much

Origin of Paint Is Still Mystery, Rotary Club Told

Kuehnstedt Outlines History of Industry at Kaukauna Meeting

Kaukauna—The history of paints and the paint industry formed the theme of an address before the Rotary club yesterday noon at their meeting at the Hotel Kaukauna by A. O. Kuehnstedt, manager of the Peerless Paint company of Appleton.

"The origin of paint is still a mystery," Kuehnstedt began his talk, "excavations showing that painting was not unknown in Egypt, Syria and Italy. There is definite knowledge that the Egyptians practiced it as long ago as 8000 B. C., and by 3500 B. C. it had become a recognized profession. Painting was also especially well developed on the island of Crete, with linseed oil being used then in the same manner as it is today."

The greatest developments in the manufacture of paints have taken place in the last 25 years. Kuehnstedt said, and prospects are good that this rapid development will continue. The United States formerly was dependent in many respects for materials upon Europe, but now domestic supplies are available.

Mr. Kuehnstedt discussed the purposes of paint, explaining that it was used for prevention of wood decay, decoration, prevention of erosion, reflection of light and keeping moisture from wood.

The current Sino-Japanese conflict has had an effect upon the paint industry, Kuehnstedt stated. One of the necessary supplies in the industry is China wood oil, which is procurable only in China. Prior to the war it was procurable for 15 cents a pound, and now the price has risen to 50 cents for the same weight. Most of the brushes used in brushes came from China also, he added, and a price rise there is expected.

Benotch Company Will Have New 15-Ton Scale

Kaukauna—The J. Benotch Fuel company is installing this week a new 15-ton scale. The scale, manufactured by the Fairbanks-Morse company, will rest on an 8 by 18 foot platform also being built. The installation will take about a month, and when completed will be one of the largest in Kaukauna.

Where these lines meet is "THE END OF THE ROAD"

INFERIOR, temporary highway surfaces clamor for more and more maintenance and reconstruction year after year. Eventually, any new roads are out of the question. All the annual road money goes for upkeep! Then, "the end of the road" has been reached, both literally and figuratively.

But Here's Big News! Taxpayers save from $114 to $469 per mile per year in the cost of surface maintenance on concrete highways compared with other types of pavement.

This statement is based on the actual reports of surface maintenance costs on 100,000 miles of pavement in 18 states—every state that publishes these records.

Concrete is the standard by which all roads are judged... insuring maximum safety, comfort and economy for motorists. High visibility at night... easy on tires, gas and repairs.

Write for "Road Maintenance Costs," which gives the itemized figures.

Chief of Police John Bernady warned motorists Wednesday against the danger of carbon monoxide. Fall weather which brings cool nights forces drivers to close their garage doors and the chief urged against starting motors when the doors are closed. Motors should be checked for any inefficient combustion adjustments, defective gas pipes or leaky manifolds, exhaust pipes or mufflers, he said.

Carbon monoxide is odorless, colorless and tasteless, yet its quick effect on the lungs and heart will produce death within a short time, the chief said.

State Engineers Begin Survey at New London Span

Data Will be Used if New Pearl Street Structure Is Ordered

New London—Prospects for a new Pearl street bridge over the Wolf River took on encouraging aspects here yesterday as state highway engineers from divisional headquarters at Wisconsin Rapids began a survey of the old structure and approaches on United States Highway 45 in either direction.

F. C. Lotzow, chief engineer in charge, said the men would be at work for about two weeks making a complete survey of the location. No decision to build a bridge here has been announced by the state highway commission yet, he said, and the survey is not a definite indication that a bridge will be built now. Data will be procured for use in such construction work at any time in the future, he professed.

Three other men from Wisconsin Rapids will be working with Lotzow. They are Fred Russel, Al Walters and Al Biot. The survey was promoted by Thomas F. Davlin, commission chairman, at a hearing here several weeks ago to gather evidence relating to the need of a new bridge.

New London Society

New London — A report on the Diocesan council meeting at Green Bay last week was given to the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters Tuesday night by Mrs. Francis Yost, delegate, at the regular meeting at the parish hall. The New London council made plans for some members to accept an invitation of a Kaukauna council to celebrate their fortieth anniversary on Oct. 20.

Prizes at the social Tuesday night were won by Mrs. David Nader, Mrs. P. J. Laux and Mrs. B. Bult.

Fourteen members of the Ladies Aid society of the Methodist church at Bear Creek were entertained by Mrs. R. R. Holliday at the Methodist parsonage here yesterday afternoon. A social followed a business meeting.

Circles 1 and 2 of the Ladies Aid society of the Congregational church met yesterday afternoon. Circle 1 conducted a general business meeting at the home of Mrs. Tom Fitzgerald with Mrs. Walter Fox as assistant hostess. Circle 3 worked on a quilting project at the home of Mrs. Beatrice Monsted.

The dinner for the district convention of Rebekahs here Oct. 26 will be served by the Dorcas society of the Methodist church. It was announced yesterday by Mrs. L. J. Manske, noble grand. Discussion of plans for the convention was the principal business at the meeting of the lodge Tuesday night.

Furniture Workers local 1642 will hold the first of a series of bi-weekly dances at Labor hall Friday night. The co-chairmen in charge are Scott Hazelberg and Reuben Gruentzel. Other dances and different committees are planned every two weeks.

Hill Crest Theta Rho Girls' club will meet at the Odd Fellow hall for a business meeting at 2:30 Saturday afternoon. It was announced yesterday by Mrs. Ira Fredericks, club advisor. Club work will be resumed after a short lapse of activities.

Pupils Build Model Of Babylon Gardens

New London — Fifth and sixth grade pupils of the Emanuel Lutheran parochial school are completing a work project in conjunction with their history study of America's old world background.

One group of sixth graders has constructed a 2-foot model of the hanging gardens of Babylon and another is building the ancient temple of Diana at Ephesus. The models are constructed of cardboard and colored construction paper.

Pieces were contributed to the project by a few individuals. Howard Liskow made a large Egyptian pyramid and Lorraine Stever and Leslie Sprinkme made small ones. Norma Lezmann made a replica of the old Egyptian scrolls while Clifford Gerndt built a sun dial and samples of old Roman bricks.

All work for the project was under the direction of the Rev. Le Roy Rasmussen, pastor.

OPERETTA STORY REVOLVES ABOUT MUSIC BOX

New London—Around this big trunk and the music box held by Hilda, the maid, revolves the whole story and activity in the annual McKinley school operetta, "Grieg's Music Box," which will be presented at Washington High school auditorium at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening. Swarming around and into the trunk are some of the principal characters and a few samples of the dance costumes. Around the trunk from left to right are Douglas Estlund as Brother Ned; Leland Sengstock, standing, plays the part of Grampy; Shirley Sawall is in the sailor chorus; Carmen Oesterich takes the part of Hilda and wears the Norwegian dance costume; Lois Lindberg, kneeling, takes the leading role of Lola who starts the search for the music box; Ruth Laughlin is in the box chorus. Standing in the trunk is Yvonne Holmes who performs in the parol song and dance number. (Post-Crescent Photo)

McKinley School Pupils To Appear in Operetta

New London — While probably not near so valuable as the music box belonging to the family of Edward Grieg, famous Norwegian composer, the excitement and merit of the McKinley school operetta, "Grieg's Music Box," tomorrow night will be centered around a family relic which possibly may have just as interesting a history.

The box which will be used in the annual presentation at Washington High school at 8 o'clock tomorrow night had its origin in Switzerland and was borrowed for the occasion from Miss Helen Kirchner of Appleton. The historic piece consists of the old-fashioned album in the top half with an ancient music box enclosed in a bottom compartment.

The entire grade school operetta revolves around this old box. When Hilda, the maid, reveals that the Norwegian Musical society is offering a reward of $20,000 for a music box which belonged to the Grieg family, Lola, her brother Ned and their friends begin a search of Grampy's old trunk in the attic.

Before the music box is found many other interesting things are discovered which suggest the many songs and dances that interrupt the search. In the end Grampy receives the reward.

Taking the leading roles are Lois Lindberg as Lola; Leland Sengstock as Grampy; Carmen Oesterich as Hilda, the maid; Douglas Estlund as Ned. Playing the part of other children are Jack Rickaby, Sally Estlund, Everett Darrow, Elvora Haynes and Helen Frank. Gordon Rusch will be Mr. Bertell, a representative of the musical society.

A solo tap dance will be given by Barbara Meinhardt and a duo dance by Joyce Krause and Dawnene Fehrman. Robert Linberg will be the Old Stump who launches the stumpy dance and chorus.

Elaborate costumes have been devised for the children. The stumps and gloomy gloops peer through mere peep holes in the unusual makeup, the arms and legs of children in the box dance dangle from a large box around their bodies while a smaller one rests on their heads. Parol girls will dance in dainty costumes, Norwegian girls will romp in colorful native dress while the sailor chorus will be in full uniform.

The New London High school band will entertain before the show begins and between scenes. Band numbers on the program are the march, "Old Comrades" by Toiker; a serenade, "Twilight Thoughts" by Rubble; and "Lehar's Waltz Melodies" arranged by Carver.

The complete choruses which will perform for hundreds of admiring parents tomorrow night after more than a month of rehearsals and preparation are as follows: Gloomy Gloopers: Wayne Sorhweide, Jimmy Irvin, Duane Dent, Roland McFall, Everett Collins, Clarence Whitman, Wayne Sawall, John Beattie, Billy Godin, Harlen Scheid, Jimmy Visecky, Betty Jane Eckhart, Helen Hedger, Bernadine Thompson, Beverly Beyer, Joyce Eastman, Jacquelyn Munser, Ronald Brown, Jimmy Brush, Milton Krause, Tommy Linberg.

Wisconsin Social Security Problem

Committee Recommendations are Included in Reorganization Bill

(Editor's Note: This is the concluding installment in a series of articles on the report and recommendations of the Citizens' Committee appointed by Governor LaFollette to investigate public welfare conditions in Wisconsin. The proposed reorganization of state and local welfare administration, and the welfare problem in general.)

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Concrete evidence that the long and conscientious study of the public welfare problems by the governor's committee of 35 public spirited citizens has not been in vain was given a few days ago when Governor LaFollette submitted to the special session of the legislature his state government reorganization bill, which, if enacted will effect a clean sweep of the big capital commissions, and carry out many of the recommendations of the committee.

Wishes of the citizens' group for board of control reorganization would be carried out in the creation of two new departments, dental hygiene and corrections, two of the specific proposals in the group's exhaustive and documentary report.

Welfare Administration
The closing chapter of the citizens' committee monumental study deals, in a thoughtful, analytical way, with the problem of state administration of welfare activities, second in importance only to county administration, which has been treated in an earlier article.

Without hesitation, the committee advised that coordination and correlation, the theme of its historic recommendations, be achieved by shifting and amalgamating the present haphazard collection of state agencies which deal with welfare work in some way or another, and which have grown up, mushroom-like, during the last several decades.

Result of this rearrangement would be three basic organizations, a state department of social security, a department of mental hygiene, and a department of corrections. This would be abolished the present board of control, the welfare department, the pension department, and divisions of many other state departments which are now scattered about the capital city.

But that, the committee pointed out frequently, represents an ideal, an ideal that may not be reached for some years.

Not Disappointed
Therefore, committee members were not disappointed last week when Governor LaFollette's bill provided for only two of the major changes recommended in state administration of welfare work.

The governor's bill would follow up exactly, however, the urgings of his committee in the administration of corrections and mental hygiene. His bill proposes that each of the two new departments be governed by policy making boards, with a full-time, paid director as chief administrator.

The policy-making boards would have five members, one to serve two, two to serve four and two to serve six years. The boards would choose directors for indefinite terms at salaries not to exceed $7,000 annually.

The board of control would have to transfer all its functions to the two new departments not later than Jan. 1, 1939.

The department of mental hygiene would be divided into three divisions, mental diseases, mental defects, and epilepsy, and prevention. If advisable it could create other divisions. The department would have the power to examine public and private institutions for the treatment of mental troubles, and to enforce laws for proper care. It would be in charge of psychiatric field work also.

Three Divisions
The department of corrections, too, would be divided into three divisions, administration, parole and probation, and criminal apprehension. It could create other divisions if they were found necessary. The department would be in charge of state penal, correctional and reformatory institutions, and could close county and city jails and police stations if they were found safe or unsanitary. If the governor directed, the board of corrections could supersede the parole board in recommending pardons or commutations.

This is carried out, in large part, the citizens' committee belief that policy-making duties should be divorced from the problems of day-to-day administration.

The third new state department which is a part of the Citizens' Committee's conception of the ideal in state public welfare machinery is a department of social security, not provided in the governor's bill, but which will doubtless be before the next regular session of the legislature.

The committee defined the sphere of the department of social security as including child welfare, aid to dependent children, old age assistance, aid to needy blind, family care, including direct relief, service and medical care, certification to work and other assistance programs, and the management of the state public school at Sparta and such other institutions as may be assigned to it.

Social Resources Council
The committee emphasized, in discussing the membership of the administrative boards of these new departments, that "every effort should be made to bring to the boards as members persons with a broad knowledge and interest in public welfare. The board should have the benefit of an enlightened and interested citizens' opinion."

Having thus disposed of the mechanics of state administration, the committee ventured an additional recommendation looking toward increased effectiveness of correlation efforts, the creation of a council of social resources, which would "tie all threads together."

"The company recognizes that close coordination of all the social resources of the state is essential," the concluding chapter of its report says.

"Each department must be aware of what the other is doing if duplication of effort is to be avoided. To prevent this overlapping and to permit agencies to perform their services for which they are best fitted, the committee advances the proposition that a single council should be empowered to carry out certain essential functions."

This coordinating group would be composed of two representatives of each of three new departments, and "representatives from such other departments as the governor may designate." It would be authorized to provide economically services which are common to the other departments.

Research Important
The "single most important activity by means of which efficiency can be secured is research," the committee declared. "It is of basic importance that long time trends in human progress be studied, that comparable, unified, and up-to-date data be compiled, and that sound plans be developed for providing needed services and for rectifying undesirable conditions. This service is regarded by the committee as indispensable."

Thus ended the most important contribution to the solution of social problems in the state of Wisconsin for many years, a report replete with facts, non-partisan, thoughtful, a report containing a list of recommendations which if heeded will put the state into the vanguard of enlightened commonwealths. Recommendations which will probably take years to be realized fully.

The work and the report of the Citizens' committee, explains George Vaughan, its publicist, is of much more vital concern to the citizens of Wisconsin than any mere summarization of the recommendations of the group indicates.

Its significance lies in the philosophy of the group which produced it, a philosophy which recognized that the welfare problem in Wisconsin cannot be considered as something that exists only temporarily and that it cannot be overcome by applying special emergency treatment.

State Obligation
The committee began its study with the conviction that every person is expected to earn his own livelihood by his own efforts, but that if a person becomes a dependent through a handicap for which he is not responsible, it becomes the state's obligation to assist him to regain his independence.

Therefore, explains Vaughan on behalf of the committee, "it becomes evident that the entire activity of the state in the welfare field, whether it be in the handling of delinquents, in public assistance, in child welfare, or in any other activity in the broad field, hinges on the question of the handicap of the individual. This handicap may be social or it be mental, or economic, or physical, but if it exists fairly, the state has no choice but to help correct it."

To enact that philosophy, and the contingent recommendations of the Citizens' committee, is now the job of the governor and the legislature. But, in an attempt to educate the state of Wisconsin to the importance of the welfare problem, the SYNOPSIS: Wealthy, flashy Prescott Fanning kidnaps Janet, a Baltimore girl, aboard his yacht. She sends word to Neill, a young federal agent who loves her. Rushing to Absalom's Harbor, he boards the yacht and finds, in a locked cabin, Fanning shot dead, and Janet in a faint, a gun beside her. Neill rows her to the disused liners kept up the river and hides her in the best suite. Back at the village hotel, he resumes his fisherman role to watch developments. The village is hysterically excited over the murder. Button Billings, justice of the peace, is called.

Chapter 15

Blood on Your Knee

TALL gaunt old man in decent Sunday blacks came down the companionway behind Neill and pushed through with an air of authority. He had a thin gray beard that waved with every movement and an expression of grim piety. He looked like a picture out of an old book. This was Mr. Button Billings, justice of the peace. Neill breathed a little easier. No special danger here.

As a matter of fact, as soon as Mr. Billings entered the after cabin in a conflict of authority arose. "What's this? What's this?" he wanted to know. "Why didn't you wait for me?"

"Virgil looked at him with a mixture of respect and exasperation. He tossed his badly chewed cigar through the porthole and stuck a fresh one in his mouth. "We are just looking into the evidence, Mr. Billings."

"That's my job."

"Virgil let him have his way. Mr. Billings stood in the middle of the cabin stroking his shaven upper lip, looking down at the body, looking all around. He frowned at the stricken steward on the sofa.

"Did he do it?" he asked Virgil. The man jumped up with a cry. "No, sir! No! It was me who found him! He was stiff and cold then. He . . ."

Mr. Billings silenced him with a wave of the hand. "All in good time. We'll sit on him first."

"That's not the way they do it," Virgil burst out. "They collect the

Report Wages of Workers on Farms Higher This Fall

Rates About 17 Per Cent Above Those of Year Ago

Higher wages are now being paid by Wisconsin farmers than a year ago, but reports from crop correspondents indicate that employment on farms in the state is about the same as a year ago. R. C. Swanson has been informed by the crop reporting service of the Wisconsin and United States Departments of Agriculture.

With a demand that exceeds the supply of farm labor, wage rates paid by Wisconsin farmers are now about 17 per cent above those of a year ago and are the highest reported for any year since 1930. Wage rates throughout the year have been considerably above those reported for 1936.

Wisconsin crop correspondents report that the prevailing wage for farm labor by the month with board is $32.75 and without board, $47.25. Wage rates for day labor average $1.75 with board and $2.30 without board.

Little change in employment has taken place as compared with a year ago, and according to the Crop Reporting Service there are about 234 persons working for each 100 farms in the state. Reports from crop correspondents indicated that there were slightly more hired laborers employed a year ago, but the number of family workers appear to be the same.

Jaces Ask Use of School for Party

Board Defers Action on Request for Halloween Event in Gym

Action on a request from the Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce for use of a junior high school gymnasium as the scene of a projected Halloween party for public and parochial school children Saturday evening, Oct. 30, was deferred by the board of education at a meeting in the Lincoln school last evening.

Board members expressed reluctance to grant the request until Ben J. Rohan, superintendent of schools, was consulted and until a suitable agreement involving liability for possible damage to the building was reached with members of the organization. Members concurred with the thought expressed in a communication from Fred Boughton, vice president, that the party would prove an aid in controlling children's Halloween night.

A letter was received from the Appleton Trades and Labor council protesting the recent appointment of Richard W. Mahony, accountant for the Appleton Coated Paper company, to the vocational board. The board instructed Miss Carrie E. Morgan, secretary, to inform the council that labor was represented on the board according to state statutes.

A petition from the Oney Johnston post of the American Legion was presented by Ray Kleist for use of the Wilson Junior High school gymnasium as a rehearsal hall for the Sons of the American Legion Drum and Bugle corps this winter. A set of rules to be observed by organizations meeting or practicing in the gymnasiums were adopted. Bills totaling $7,722.75 were allowed and were itemized as follows: grade schools, $2,239.93; junior high schools, $3,025.09; senior high school, $1,530.30; general control, $997.43.

Neill could scarcely believe his ears. Was it possible they were going to drop the whole thing? No such luck. When he saw Virgil Longo's shrewd eyes and active cigar he knew it wasn't going to be dropped.

Virgil was the only source of information as to what was really happening. Neill was unable to get hold of him again, but the nature of his activities leaked out of the little office from time to time. Mark Bonniger, it appeared, was away from home, and they were telephoning all over for him. Meanwhile Virgil had got the governor himself on the phone, and had arranged that as soon as Bonniger was found he should be sworn in as a special officer. Thus he got ahead of Mr. Button Billings.

Virgil had a keen sense of the value of publicity. He telephoned the news to the Washington and Baltimore newspapers and it was said that the reporters were racing down in a fleet of cars.

"I'm going to have this matter handled right!" Virgil was heard to shout. "I'm gonna put Absalom's on the map!" Neill's breast tightened, hearing this. He dreaded the reporters just now.

This Man Bonniger Neill felt an anxious curiosity concerning this Bonniger whose name was on everybody's lips. His fate and Janet's depended on the kind of man he proved to be. By keeping his ears open and asking an occasional question, he built up a mental picture of Bonniger.

A quiet man. A widower in his middle forties, and the last representative of a family that had been prominent in the county since it was first settled. The Bonnigers were not the sort of people that money stuck to, and the family estate had declined since the Civil war, but Mark still had good tobacco and corn land and blooded riding horses. He lived alone in his old house, "Lordship's Grace," 20 miles up river.

Mark Bonniger's neighbors regarded him with a mixture of familiarity and awe. They felt that he belonged to them though they rarely saw him. He was a great traveler and would be away for months at a time without anybody knowing of it until he got back. He never went around, but he had good friends. Like Virgil. Virgil thought the world of him. Virgil had been trying for years to get him into

Virgil, desperately rolling the cigar between his teeth, made another plea for delay. "Anyhow, wait until Mark Bonniger comes."

Mr. Billings drew himself up. "What's Mark Bonniger got to do with it?"

"I have requested him to take charge of the case."

"Mark Bonniger is not an officer!"

"He's a student and a traveler," said Virgil. "He knows how these things are done."

"You have gone beyond yourself in this matter, Virgil," said Mr. Billings severely. "We all respect you as a citizen, but you hold no office. I am the representative of the law in this district."

Virgil flung up his hands. The cigar tossed like a ship at sea.

Neill was well pleased to see the body carried ashore. The officious Mr. Button Billings was doing all he could to make the finding of the killer more difficult.

A freight shed on Longo's wharf was designated as the place to hold an inquest. The solemn jury and the witnesses disappeared inside and closed the door. While he waited, Neill circulated unobtrusively among the crowd, watching and listening for anything that might threaten danger. He was startled when he accidentally caught sight of his own strained face in the mirror of a slot machine.

An hour later the verdict was announced: "Man unknown shot to death by person or persons unknown."

public life, like all the Bonnigers before him.

Chiefly, however, the men spoke of Bonniger's insight into character. "You can't fool Mark Bonniger! He will let you think you are fooling him, but he is fooling you."

Virgil Longo, he made no mistake when he picked Mark Bonniger to solve this case. . . . Mark Bonniger can see further into a stone wall than most men." And so on. And so on.

All this was disquieting. Neill saw that in remaining on the spot he had cast himself in a difficult role. His thoughts turned to Janet. He wished that he had her hidden furthest away. Too dangerous to try to move her now. He longed to be with her.

Later he learned that Mark Bonniger had been found and was being rushed to Annapolis so that the governor could swear him in.

As he was circulating in the hotel lobby, picking up a word here and there—it was only idle gossip to the crowd, but to Neill it meant everything—he happened to glance at the letter rack behind the desk and was surprised to see a letter in his box.

Upon his asking for it, a plain white envelope was handed him. Nothing but the room number was written on it. Inside he found a half sheet of note-paper with a note pencilled in a clerkly hand:

You been going round all morning with blood on your knee. You better wash it out before the investigator comes.

It was like an unexpected icy shower. Taking care to keep his face, Neill went quietly up the stairs. In his room he stared at his reflection in the mirror. It was true! There was a brownish-red stain on his left knee as big as a quarter.

He must have got it when he had knelt beside Fanning's body in the cabin of the yacht. The breeches were an old, soiled pair, and one spot more had escaped his notice.

The thought of his carelessness brought the sweat out on him. A trained sleuth, it seemed, could be as blind a fool as any crook when it came to covering his own tracks.

He slipped out of his breeches in order to wash them. An ugly anxiety made him set his jaw. Who had written this note? It brought back to mind the unexplained happenings of the night before. Who was the sharp-eyed individual watching his every move? Who was there in Absalom's who knew so much about him? And how much more did he know?

Club Successful In Drive for Funds To Buy 'Iron Lung'

Neenah Will be Third City In Wisconsin to Have Equipment

Neenah — Neenah will have the distinction of being the third city in Wisconsin to own an "iron lung," it was learned at the noon meeting of the Neenah Kiwanis club Wednesday at the Valley Inn.

Theodore Gilbert, chairman of the committee for the purchase of the artificial respirator, reported that $1,150 has been pledged the club toward the purchase of the "iron lung" and that a philanthropist who declined to have his name mentioned agreed to furnish the balance. The artificial respirator will cost approximately $1,850.

Milwaukee and Madison are the only two cities in Wisconsin which have artificial respirators, uses for which are not limited to infantile paralysis but can be used in cases of carbon monoxide poisoning, tetanus, gas poisoning, electric shock, smoke suffocation, cerebral hemorrhage and heat stroke.

Will Go To Hospital

The "iron lung" will be donated to Theda Clark hospital and will be used in all emergency cases which require artificial respiration. Twin City manufacturers and merchants have pledged donations so that the "iron lung" can be made possible.

The Kiwanians honored Colonel F. J. Schmeller when they voted to make him an honorary life member of the club. Colonel Schmeller, who has been a member of the club for more than 10 years, will leave Neenah soon to live in Chicago.

The club presented the colonel with a letter of appreciation for his services rendered to the club. Denver Groff, first place winner in the C. M. T. C. essay contest sponsored by the Kiwanis club, was awarded a medal. The medalist is a lieutenant in the United States army reserve and it is expected that he will be an instructor in the R. O. T. C. at Chicago University.

Neenah Rockets Expect Victory in Clintonville Tilt

Christoph's Squad Has Pa- per Advantage Over Truckers

Neenah — The Red Rockets expect to record their second North-eastern Wisconsin conference football victory here Saturday afternoon when they clash with the Clintonville Truckers.

Although neither team holds much recommendation from past performances, the Neenah eleven has a slight edge, at least on paper, over the Truckers. Clintonville has lost its three conference games this season, while Neenah holds one victory against two defeats.

Last Saturday the Truckers were handed the humiliating defeat of the season when Shawano piled up a 64 to 0 count over them, which may or may not have some effect on the Truckers' temper for the Saturday conflict. Shawano had beaten the Red Rockets, 25 to 0, the preceding Saturday. Last weekend the Neenah eleven's measure was taken by West DePere, 19 to 0.

Will Experiment Although Coach George Christoph is not anticipating any overconfidence from his gridders, he is not belittling the potential possibility of the Truckers despite Clintonville's decidedly poor showing in past games.

The Neenah mentor will continue to experiment with his crippled forward wall, shifting players from one position to another in an effort to find a satisfactory combination. He is also assigning various members of the second team to string berths in hopes that some latent ability may be produced. Christoph expects to throw everything the Red Rocket eleven has against the invasion of the Truckers. This week's drills featured both line plays and aerial attacks, and this afternoon the grid mentor sent his teams through a heavy scrimmage workout.

Menasha Eleven Works on Offense

Calder Directs Workout Under Butte des Morts Lights

Menasha — Offense is the keyword in the Menasha high school grid squad preparations for the game with Kaukauna here Friday night, Oct. 22, under the lights at the Butte des Morts field. All traces of over-confidence were knocked out with the upset 7 to 2 defeat that New London handed the Bluejays and Kaukauna will face a team exerting every effort to redeem itself.

The squad is recovering from the bruises and bumps left from the West DePere game and promises to be in top physical condition for the game with the Kaws. Henk and Bukey, linemen, will be benefited greatly by the week's rest.

Drill was held Wednesday night under the lights at Butte des Morts with the emphasis on offense. Practices will be held today and tomorrow with the team still putting polish on the execution of its plays. Next week two sessions will be devoted to offense and two to defense.

Coach N. A. Calder has shifted Westberg, a senior, over to the right end post to fill the spot Lawrence Mauf played. Mauf has played the WIAA all season. Westberg had been used as a second-string full-back but likes the battling too well to be on the sidelines. He is especially reckless on defense, crashing through and over for tackles, and likes the rough going. Although not very heavy, he is rugged enough to stand punishment.

Earl Black, back, is receiving some extra attention at center and may be used to give Schneider some rest. Schneider, an all-conference center last year, has played every minute of all games except the first in which the entire squad saw action.

Three Neenah Students On U. of W. Fresh Squad

Neenah — Three Neenah young men who are freshmen at the University of Wisconsin are members of the freshmen football squad. They are Richard Howarth, Kenneth Heinz, and Clyde Corbett. The three boys are graduates of Neenah High school, and played football with the Red Rockets.

JUMP ARTERIAL

Neenah — Robert Schneider, Oshkosh, was fined $200 costs when he pleaded guilty of jumping an arterial at Lake and Main streets when he was arrested before Justice L. O. Cooke Wednesday afternoon. The defendant was arrested by Neenah police.

DuBois, Mrs. Arthur Haselow, Mrs. Ernst Mahler, Mrs. S. F. Shattuck, Mrs. Chester Shepard, Mrs. J. J. Stafford, Mrs. O. T. Thompson, Mrs. Donald Turner, Mrs. Frank B. Whitting.

Mrs. D. L. Kimberly presented the treasurer's report which showed that the income for 1937 exceeded by $1,650.62 the expenditures which were $8,334.68. Expenditures for 1936 were $8,575.40. Subscriptions for 1937 totaled $7,300.25 which, together with the insurance company benefits, the nurses' fees and miscellaneous fees, bring the total receipts to $9,226.31. Insurance company benefits, one national and two local, were estimated at $1,750.07 and the nurses' fees at $768. The increase in insurance company benefits and the paid services or nurses fees show a decided increase over a year ago, it was reported.

The Memorial Endowment fund increased to $3,550 this year with the anonymous gift from a board member of $1,014.25. Henry J. Jung audited the books of the association, Mrs. Kimberly reported.

Drive

Mrs. Robert McMillen, chairman of the finance committee, reported on the 1937 drive which ended last night, told the group about the direct mail appeal for subscriptions instead of the house to house canvases of previous years, and stated that 600 reports in booklet form were sent subscribers, that 700 letters were sent parents of children treated in dental clinics and health centers and that letters had been sent local doctors and dentists thanking them for their "splendid cooperation."

Mrs. McMillen's committee included Mrs. D. W. Bergstrom, Jr., Mrs. Horace DuBois, Mrs. D. L. Kimberly, Mrs. Rexford Mitchell, Mrs. E. J. Aylward, Mrs. K. B. Mory, Mrs. John Pinkerton, Mrs. Silas Spengler, Mrs. Marshall Smith and Mrs. Kimberly Stuart.

Mrs. E. J. Aylward, chairman of the child welfare committee, reported on the health centers in Neenah and Menasha, stating that a total of 274 children were examined in the 12 health centers during the year, 122 of which were infants, 147 pre-school children, 5 special cases, and 98 new cases. She expressed the appreciation of the association and her committee for the service of local doctors and nurses. Members of her committee included Mrs. Donald Turner, Mrs. John Pinkerton, Mrs. G. A. Loesch, Mrs. Russell Flom, Mrs. Charles Sage, Mrs. A. E. Haskins and Mrs. J. H. Kimberly.

Dental Progress

In presenting the report of the dental clinic committee of which she is chairman, Mrs. Kimberly Stuart reported that dentists and doctors in both cities had stated "a noted improvement in the mouths of children" and that one Menasha dentist heard at a Madison meeting that the visiting nurse association clinics are better organized than any similar clinic in the state.

Thirty-six dental clinics were held in Neenah and 36 in Menasha during the year, Mrs. Stuart reported, 176 children examined in the Neenah clinic and 270 in the Menasha clinic.

Mrs. Clayton Ewing, vice chairman, auxiliary and supply committee, reported on the dressings, bandages, nurses' bags and cases, napkins, aprons, and towels that had been made by the supply committee. This group provides transportation for the dental clinics.

About $83 was taken in by the auxiliary and plans for a project to use this money have been discussed. Other members of her committee are Mrs. Donald Shepard who is chairman, Mrs. A. C. Haselow, Mrs. Ruste E. Lyon, Mrs. John O'Leary, Mrs. Donald Snyder, Mrs. Irvin Pearson, Mrs. William Wright, Mrs. Gavin Young, Jr., Mrs. Roy Sund, Mrs. Leo Schubart, Mrs. Al Stempel and Mrs. F. J. Jensen.

Work is Advised

The publicity committee, headed by Mrs. R. E. Thiekens reported on the work of her committee which includes Mrs. J. H. Kimberly, Mrs. R. Mitchell, Mrs. Clayton Ewing and Mrs. Donald Turner, mentioning particularly the talks given more than 100 clubs and societies in the Twin Cities to explain the program and work of the V. N. A.

Mrs. John Senebrenner, chairman of the clerical committee reported on the clerical committee activity, stating that 134 hours of work by members of the committee who are Mrs. O. Thompson, Mrs. H. DuBois, Mrs. F. E. Senebrenner, Mrs. Samuel Pickard, Mrs. J. J. Stafford and Mrs. G. A. Loesch, had been done in making reports for the nurses' activity.

Mrs. Charles Sage, chairman of the education committee, reported on the work of her group and discussed the social events and fire-drill teas planned for staff nurses, doctors and board members. Members of her committee are Mrs. K. Lawson, Mrs. Chester Shepard, Mrs. R. McMillen and Mrs. John Senebrenner.

Loyal Support

Mrs. Donald Shepard read Mrs. Banta's report which stated the Visiting Nurse association owed its successful year to the loyal support and contributions given to general work by the community of Neenah and Menasha and the cooperation of the doctors in both towns.

Paying tribute to the nurses and supervisor, Miss Lydia Boureassa, Mrs. Banta praised their valiant service, their earnest enthusiasm, their cheerfulness and their duty to their task. Mrs. Banta touched briefly on the plans of the association for second dental clinic to take in the junior and high school students and expressed the appreciation of the association to the Twin City Emergency society.

St. Mary Eleven To Use New Plays Against St. John's

Catholic Conference Game Will be Played at Lit- tle Chute Sunday

Menasha — With an opportunity to erase all past games by scoring a victory in the opening of the Catholic conference season against St. John at Little Chute next Sunday, the St. Mary gridders have been drilling on new plays this week and polishing up the old ones.

With co-captain Jim DeYoung absent yesterday, Coach Marvin Miller had a backfield composed of Schipflinger at quarterback, Grade and Hopfensperger at the halfback posts and Bill Resch at fullback working on offense.

Performing behind the first string line, that backfield tore off several impressive gains. Hopfensperger is by far the fastest man on the field and if shaken into the clear will be difficult to catch. His speed also enables him to get down under passes. He is weak on blocking and defensive play however as he was out of action with an injured ankle early in the season.

To make the going a bit tougher, Coach Miller put the first string backfield on offense behind the second string line with the first string linemen on defense. Even so, the backs were able to get away for a few gains. Eugene Laux was used in the backfield and showed power in his running as well as accurate tossing of forward passes.

Cold weather hampered the drill, numbing the fingers of the pass receivers. Several of the players wore canvas gloves to keep their fingers warm. Two more heavy drills will be held before practice for the St. John game closes with a light drill on Saturday.

Menasha Society

Mrs. William Montonati, 360 Oak street, was guest of honor at a tenth wedding anniversary party Tuesday evening when a group of friends and neighbors gathered at her home to help her celebrate the anniversary. Cards were played during the evening, honors in bridge going to Mrs. Florin Kaminski and Mrs. Herbert Sabrowski, in schafkopf to Mrs. Jerry Schnitz, and Mrs. Theodore Kluge. Mrs. Montonati received a gift.

Hotel Remodeling to Offer Room for Stores

Menasha — Remodeling of the front of the old Fox River house on Main street has been completed by William Johnson and the building was removed from the sidewalk today. The former hotel has been given a brick veneer front with modernistic trim over doors and windows.

The first floor has been divided into space for three stores with large glass fronts. Upstairs the rooms have been divided into office space. A large amount of work remains to be done on the floors and ceilings on both the first and second floors, according to Mr. Johnson. Work began on the remodeling early in July.

SPEEDER IS FINED

Menasha — Mrs. Francis Lotz, Park avenue, was fined $5 and costs by Justice of the Peace Ray J. Finn on a charge of speeding in justice court last night. Mrs. Lotz was arrested by the Menasha police and charged with speeding on Main street Tuesday.

New Members Join Business Women's Group at Banquet

Final Account Of W. O. Allen Estate Allowed

Neenah Man's Possessions Listed at $23,572; Res- idue Is $19,702

(Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau) Oshkosh — Judgment allowing final account in the estate of William O. Allen, Neenah, was filed today in Winnebago county court by Sara H. Allen, executrix. The estate is listed at $23,572.02 with claims of $3,869.50 and a residue of $19,702.52, consisting of United States treasury bonds, mortgages and real estate.

Petition to probate the will of Mabel Sorenson, Neenah, involving an estimated estate consisting of about $6,000 in personal property and $3,000 in real estate was filed in county court by William A. Gerhardt, Neenah.

Heirs and next of kin listed in the petition include three sisters, two brothers and a niece, all living in Copenhagen, Denmark. One brother-in-law, Antonio Sorenson, Green Bay, is also listed. Interests of the heirs in Denmark are being handled through the Danish consulate in Chicago, county court attaches said.

A petition for administration of the estate of Reuben H. Martin, town of Rushford, was filed today in county court by Catherine Rapp, Rushford. The estate consists of about $100 in personal property and $3,000 in real estate. A probable heir listed in the petition is Stella A. Henry, Hornell, N. Y., a sister.

Invitations have been extended all interested Menasha citizens as well as parents of school children and Alcx Slomski, Menasha police chief and members of his staff plan to attend.

Mrs. I. M. Catlin is president of the Nicolet association and Mrs. Andrew Hopfensperger is program chairman.

Grads, Bone Crushers Schedule Return Tilt

Menasha — Claiming that they were handicapped because several of their star players were absent the St. Mary alums have requested another football game with the Fifth Ward Bone Crushers. The two teams will meet Sunday afternoon at the Jefferson school diamond.

The Bonecrushers won the first game by a 34 to 14 score when Ted Beach scored three touchdowns, B. Stepanski and B. Hoks each scored one for the victors while Sam Kraus sneaked over the goal line for the two scores by the St. Mary grads.

It is reported that both teams are loading their lineups for the Sunday encounter.

Health Officer Denies Paralysis Case Report

Neenah — Dr. Frank O. Brunkhorst, city health officer, said today that there have been no cases of infantile paralysis reported to his office, and he contradicted a statement made in a Milwaukee newspaper that a 4-year-old girl from Neenah had been taken to the South View isolation hospital at Milwaukee with infantile paralysis because of inadequate hospitalization facilities here.

The health officer said that as soon as cases of contagious disease which require quarantine are discovered they are immediately reported to his office which is required by law. He also said that Milwaukee would not accept any cases of infantile paralysis without a permit from the health officer.

Twin City Visiting Nurses Made 8,300 Calls During Last Year

Neenah — Twin City Visiting Nurses made 8,344 calls during 1936-37 in comparison with 8,114 during the previous year it was reported by Miss Lydia Boureassa, supervising nurse, at the annual meeting of the Visiting Nurse association in the Neenah-Menasha Y.W.C.A. Wednesday evening.

More work among the pre-school children is planned for the coming year, Miss Boureassa stated, as she reported an increase of 85 cases of pre-school children care over last year when 317 calls were made. About 400 calls were made during the 1936-37 year. An increase of the school children cases, 592 this year to 511 last year was also reported.

About 940 health supervision calls were made from Oct. 1936 to Oct. 1937, an increase over last year when 927 calls were made.

Pre-natal care was given 506 mothers and post-natal care, 557 mothers. Medical visits totalled 247, surgical cases 819 and communicable disease cases 757.

Miss Boureassa told members of the Twin City VNA that it was gratifying to learn that the nurse program of quarantine for nurses on communicable disease cases was being understood by the patients and the general public. She pointed out that under this program, while a nurse is on a communicable disease case, she makes no other calls and after the last case is given a patient, the nurse is kept in quarantine for another two weeks before going out on other calls in order that there is no chance of giving the disease to anyone else. This rigid program is necessary to the Visiting Nurse program.

U. W. Registrar Is Guest Speaker at Kiwanis Meeting

Traces Development in Education During Present Century

Chilton—Curtis Merriman, registrar of the University of Wisconsin, was the guest speaker at the meeting of the Chilton Kiwanis club at Hotel Chilton on Tuesday evening. Taking as his theme "Changes in Education," the speaker treated developments in education during the present century and noted the changes in business developments that might be said to parallel the educational changes during the same years.

School architecture during the last two decades has created school buildings that have very little in common with the school buildings of the nineteenth century, he said. Business buildings erected during the years of the present century have progressed quite as much from the old type as the latest school buildings have done.

Methods of teaching have changed materially in many aspects. Educational tests are a product of the last 20 years, and their use is growing as they are being improved, the speaker stated. In a parallel way methods of business have so changed that in many aspects they would be unknown to anyone who knew only the methods used during the later years of the last century.

Standards in education have changed. Less than a generation ago the educational standard for the masses of the people was completion of the eight grades of the elementary school, Mr. Merriman asserted. Since the close of the World War the educational standard to be reached by the masses is completion of the high school.

Standards of training for those who seek places in the business world also have been raised, and the young person seeking employment in the business world improves his chances for placement very much indeed if he has completed a high school course, Mr. Merriman asserted, adding that there are some very important questions or problems now before the American people which will have to be answered during the next quarter century.

Among these questions are: "How far shall we carry the education of our people at public expense? Shall we fix that level at completion of high school? Or shall we add the first two years of college work to the high school courses, thus making the high school a junior college? Or shall our educational objective be completion of college or university courses? This and other questions dealing fundamentally with human welfare will claim the serious consideration and study not only of best thinkers and leaders of the country for the next generation but of the masses of our people as well, the speaker declared.

Twin sons were born to Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Schmidt in the town of Chilton Tuesday night. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Earl Mescar.

The Ladies Aid society met at the home of Mrs. Henry Kroll Wednesday afternoon. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Earl Mescar.

Subways are becoming the leading means of transportation in Moscow, Russia.

Books belonging to Waupaca and Manawa city schools are being repaired by 15 workers of the WPA, 11 of them women. Whatever the book needs to have done is taken care of by the group, and the cost is anywhere from 5 to 12 cents a book.
